EXTRA! CRIES WILL, LINDBERGH WINS IN HORSESHOE GAME

(Special to The News)
BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 14.—Biggest news in the papers today was that Col. Lindbergh had won the horseshoe pitching contest out in the Black Hills of Virginia at Camp Hoover.

What's the matter with this pitching contest. Is there no limit to this man's cleverness? California morning papers are all starting subscriptions for relief of earthquake victims in New York and Pennsylvania. Senator Fletcher of Florida had the best and most sensible line (that is for a senator). Speaking of the fruit fly process whereby you freeze him to death before allowing the fruit to be shipped. He said: "Ninety per cent of New Yorkers would rather eat a live fly than they would a dead one."

Yours.

These hot August days are supposed to be hard on canines, but it has hardly been hot enough this year to even make humans suffer.

Thursday promises to be a big day in town. Perhaps the promoters of Dollar Day had in mind that many Old Timers would be back on a visit at this time.

Perry S. Gaston Post of the American Legion is going to make a strong bid for the 1931 state Legion convention. A big delegation will go to Scranton on August 28th to attempt to bring the convention here.

Old Jupiter Pluvius was trying hard to put the damper on the Old-Timers' picnic this morning. He may succeed before the day is over, but we hope he doesn't.

Well, this afternoon is the afternoon and if the weatherman just holds out the Old Timers should enjoy another year of grand marching, happy reunions, and return to their homes happy at the close of a perfect day.

Automobile traffic is just nothing, as Young Pa New remembers the Old Timers days when he but an unshin' buggy, a sulkie, a buckboard, and bicycles all seemed bound for the park on Old Timers day. Every one took enough food for

Many States Represented By Visitors Here To Participate In Annual Affair

OLD TIME DANCES WILL FEATURE DAY

Years Are Thrown Off As Pioneers Come Back To Reminisce Of Other Days

Pioneers of yesterday, the folk who had a hand in shaping the destinies of Lawrence county, are flocking to Cascade Park today to participate in the twenty-third annual Old-Timers Day. They have come from various states to further cement the friendships which were made when they were playmates.

Many "Gone On."

Preparations for the event which is a gala day in the lives of the Old-Timers have been under way for a month and when they gather this afternoon many of the faces which beamed smiles last year will be missing. Many of those who will attend may not be present next year hence the parting of persons this evening with the silent utterance "God be with you till we meet again."

But today the boys and girls of yesterday are going to step out with rejuvenated footsteps and at two o'clock the grand march will be held at Rainbow Terrace. It will be led by H. E. Megoun, president of the Old-Timers association and his daughter, Mrs. Fannie Gormley. The never to be forgotten voice of Colonel Dan Mooney will be missing as he is one of those who passed to his reward only recently.

Ralph M. Campbell will be on duty, helping here, aiding there and guiding those who have faltering footsteps. After the grand march the dances which featured scores of years ago will be staged to the music that featured in those days after which the Old-Timers will show in many ways that they are "up on new fangled dancing."

Prizes To Be Given.
Another feature of the big affair will be the gold prizes to be awarded certain individuals, who will be in attendance. The prizes will be as follows: (Continued On Page Fifteen)

Padlock Removed So Furniture Can Be Secured Today

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 14.—The United States government was to remove a padlock today to permit August Perrine to take his furniture.

Not knowing the building was under permanent injunction, Perrine contracted with the owner to lease the premises and moved in his furniture, only to have it locked up by the government, he stated in his court petition for removal permission.

The locked doors will open for a short time and then will swing closed again, to remain that way.

Over One Hundred Former Students Gather In The Old Building Again

OLD TIME TEACHERS PRESENT AT REUNION

For the 22nd consecutive year, former students of the old Reynoldstown school on Pearson street met Tuesday afternoon in that same school house, now the W. N. Aiken building, and among other things recalled precious reminiscences of school days long past.

The group of a hundred or more met in a classroom so familiar to them on the first floor of the building. The one o'clock bell, as in olden days, was rung as a signal that once more the Reynoldstowners were to meet. The meeting began shortly after two.

Mrs. McGurk Presides

In the absence of the first vice president, Fred L. Rentz, and the second vice president, William Dunn, Mrs. Anna Tobin McGurk, third vice president, occupied the presiding chair for the afternoon. Seated with Mrs. McGurk at the front of the room was Mrs. J. K. Pollock, the secretary.

Immediately after calling the session together, Mrs. McGurk asked all to bow their heads for silent prayer out of respect for these departed members of the association. Especially was the name of the late John M. Snyder remembered. It was he who organized the Reynoldstown association and served as its president for 22 years until his death last year.

Following silent prayer the program of the afternoon opened. Numerous one-time students were anxious to hear each other's words and experiences of their while they were in school. Mrs. McGurk who was in charge related one story and other came following quickly after. To fix the exact certainty of something that occurred back in '75 and years in that period was something not easy to do. The Rev. Sylvester Young of North Jackson, O., and a member of the association, told of the time when he was a pupil. He interestingly recited a poem which he was compelled to give in the grades, then turning to more serious thought, sounded a challenge to those of Reynoldstown to go (Continued On Page Two)

Ivorites Down To Convention Detail Today

Sessions Presided Over By First Woman Chosen For National President

POULTNEY VT. MAY GET 1930 MEETING

Shortly after nine o'clock this morning, the second session of the national convention of the American Order of True Ivories was called to order by Mrs. Richard E. Williams, grand president in the assembly hall in the American Legion home on North Jefferson street.

The morning session came to a close just before noon when the entire group halted to pose for photographs. This afternoon the third business session is taking place with the grand president in charge.

First Woman President

Mrs. Williams is the first lady in the history of the organization to serve as grand president of the Ivories order which is composed of both ladies and men's lodges in four states. This is the third time for the convention to occur here. The first of their meetings took place here about 1903, then again in 1918 and again at the present time. The Martha lodge of this city, under whose auspices the convention is being held, is also the youngest lodge in the order.

This afternoon's business session will come to a close before four o'clock and the delegates will be taken on an automobile tour of the city. A luncheon supper at Cascade park will follow.

Thursday will find both business sessions in order during the morning and afternoon and the 1929 convention will come to a close that evening with a banquet in the First Christian church.

Grand Officers Here
The grand officers in attendance are: Mrs. R. R. Williams, Ulica, N. Y., grand president; Lewis Jones, Chicago, Ill., grand vice-president; W. E. Jones, New York City, grand treasurer; C. T. The delegates in attendance are from four different states, Vermont, New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois. There are a large number of members of the order in attendance in addition to the delegates.

At the opening session of the convention, Councilman D. O. Davies, of this city and a member of Star of Wales Lodge here, extended a hearty welcome to the delegates and visitors on behalf of the city, while Mrs. Grif Thomas also extended a (Continued On Page Eighteen)

Weather Man To Be Given Radio

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 14.—The Allegheny county commissioners went shopping today to buy a radio for the weather man.

W. S. Brotzman, U. S. meteorologist, pleaded for the set to facilitate his reports of flying weather forecasts. He now has two extra men concentrating on flying weather, but no means of picking up the forecasts broadcasted nationally at short intervals, he said.

Because the government funds which might be used for purchasing a set were depleted, the county commissioners voted to buy one.

Juror Stricken In Snook Trial Place Is Filled

Defense Goes To Jury With Its Side Of The Case; Scores Prosecutor

Jury Should Have Case In Its Hands For Verdict On Thursday

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent
COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 14.—Juror No. 8 in the Snook case, C. F. Butche, a carpenter, reported ill today and the 13th or emergency juror, Newton L. Tracey, a railroad foreman, was substituted in his place in the jury box by agreement of counsel for both sides and the defendant himself, Dr. James H. Snook.

Snook, who is on trial for the murder of Miss Theora Hix, co-ed beauty, was asked by Judge Henry L. Scarlett if he was satisfied with the new juror.

"I am," replied Snook.

New Juror Named

Juror Butche was seized by a bilious attack which would incapacitate him indefinitely. Consequently, Judge Scarlett informed the other jurors "he has been removed from further consideration in the case."

Then with Tracey sitting as juror No. 8, Defense Attorney Max C. Seyfert began, at 9:30 a. m., the second of three closing defense arguments to the jury.

Attorney Seyfert, speaking in a clear, resonant voice, reviewed the case briefly and scored the prosecutors for the manner in which they "wring" a confession from Snook.

McKinney Is Speaker At Kiwanis Meeting

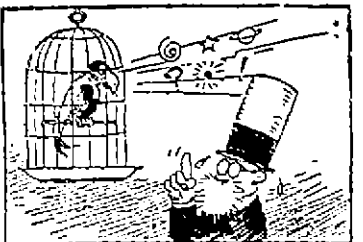

Robert A. McKinney Speaks On "The Holy Land" At Kiwanis Meeting Today

Robert A. McKinney, well known class instructor at the First Presbyterian church and Holy Land treasurer, spoke to the members of the Kiwanis club who convened at the Elks Club on North Mill street today at noon.

"The Holy Land," was the title of the address made by Mr. McKinney and the traveler sketched his way through the entire Holy Land, relating each event and location with some phase of Bible prophecy or history as we know it today.

The meeting at which McKinney spoke followed the luncheon which was served at 12:15 o'clock. Captain Charles B. Phillips, president of the club, was in charge of the meeting.

Those good old days, those great old days, those days in the far away, are back again for a little time, the Old Timers are with us today. Their steps are feeble and shoulders bowed, and the silver has frosted their hair, and wrinkles have furrowed their faces deep, wrinkles of sorrow and care. But today they turn with a simple stroke, the years that have passed them by, and the shoulders lift and the faces smile, there's a twinkle in every eye. Old friends they remember from other days, old friendships today renew, and live again in their golden past, the weather is seventy-two

New Theatre
Will Cost Half Million Dollars

Site Of Old Coliseum On South Mill Street To Be Home Of Modern Theatre

SEATING CAPACITY
APPROXIMATELY 3000

Construction To Be Started
As Soon As Legal Technicalities Are Removed

Site of the former Coliseum, South Mill street, amusement center of the city, until the destruction of the Coliseum building a few years ago by fire, and more recently the property of James B. Clark of the former Rowland & Clark theatrical interests, will be the site of one of the finest amusement houses ever erected in this city. It was stated Tuesday afternoon, by A. P. Gillespie of Pittsburgh.

Sold to Chain.

Shortly after the purchase of the old Coliseum site by Mr. Rowland, the Rowland & Clark interests were sold to an Eastern Chain Theatre Corporation and this delayed the use of the local site for theatrical purposes, together with the need of additional room for the proposed theatre and also the turning of the property over to other interests, who will undertake the erection of the new theatre in the immediate future instead of the original purchaser, according to Mr. Gillespie, who is in touch with all interested parties.

As soon as the legal technicalities covering the transfer of the property, the preliminary work of financing the proposition and plans for the building can be completed and that should be in a very short time, the actual construction work will be started.

According to Mr. Gillespie, it is planned to erect a theatre with a seating capacity of from 2500 to 3000, completely equipped for both talking pictures and vaudeville. It will be the latest thing in theatrical construction, representing an investment of approximately $500,000 when opened to the public.

In addition to the original Coliseum site, the new interests behind the theatre have secured an option on the Smith heirs property adjoining the Coliseum site on the north, giving a frontage of 100 feet on Mill street and a depth of 165 feet to Apple way, all of which will be used in the construction of the new theatre.

Entrance on Mill Street.

There will be a fine improved entrance on South Mill street, also fine storerooms for commercial purposes, and offices on the second and third floors, if it is deemed advisable.

The new theatre will be in a logical center of the business center of the city, affording easy approach from every direction of the city and within a short distance of the center of all transportation facilities of the city and county.

It will be so constructed and arranged that entrance to and exit from can be had with ease and safety at all times. Car parking facilities are on all sides and easy of access from the theatre and the new theatre is expected to prove a very successful venture.

a dozen folks and it was a day to be remembered for months to come.

The Reynoldstowners have a good system all of their own. They meet the day before Old Timers reunion and thus kill two birds with one stone by remaining over and celebrating again.

Don't bother about your car tomorrow folks. Just park as long as you please but not where you please.

Pa Newc is awaiting the huge merchants picnic which is scheduled to take place August 22. The invitation is open to every one and the department expects to see one of the largest crowds at the park and perhaps the largest that has ever been there in one single day. The merchants have contracted the park, hook, line and sinker, so look for a big time.

Since the Rosena dam went out of existence, kids can make better use of the river. Pa Newc observed a group this morning out wading near the Mill street bridge. Prior to this time, the water would have been too deep.

Perchance you, along with some others, have noticed that darkness comes earlier in the evening now. This is about the first sign of the coming of fall.

The news story that some one had been injured by colliding with a bicycle reminds one of the old editorials that used to appear in big type, stating that the "bicycle was here to stay," and "the streets must be made safe for the public." The same men who wrote those editorials are now shoving through Sunday auto traffic and many are riding airplanes.

Today, the local Boy Scout party are starting their tour of points in Europe. The lads are expected home the latter part of this month. Seems to us that they will hate starting to school after a trip like that.

Don't forget to call The News if you have guests here from out of town over today, which is, you know, Old Timers day.

Teachers of the different public schools of the city will meet Tuesday afternoon, September 3, according to an announcement. The place designated for the meeting is the senior high school. Dr. C. C. Green, superintendent of schools, will be in charge of the meeting. On the following day, which is Wednesday, September 4, the school children will meet in their respective schools in the morning. At this time the school year will commence.

A nice trip now motorists will be to hop in your car after dinner on Sunday, ride out to Mt. Jackson, turn right, go through Bessemer over to Poland, cut through Youngstown, out to New Bedford, and back home. Just a nice little drive to cool off.

Another very nice drive is to travel down to Enon Valley, take the dirt road over the hill to the Lincoln highway, turn left, go to Darlington. Take the improved road to Beaver Falls and then home.

Sad news for school children! Only 21 more days left until schools throughout Lawrence county open for the 1929-30 school term.

A beautiful white racing car attracted great attention on Washington street yesterday. The car was nicely packed on a huge truck and was specially built for racing. Upon inquiry it was found that the racer would be driven by Deacon Litz at a race to be held at Altoona Labor Day.

Pa Newc made a slight error when he stated that the sheriff's office would be closed this afternoon for Old Timers' Day. What Pa Newc meant to say was that although the office would be closed, Sheriff Reynolds will be on the job as usual. The sheriff is one man who has to be on the job 24 hours in the day.

Pa Newc observed a horse, attached to a buggy, hitched to a pile of logs near the Rosena dam. Evidently the owner was seeking a quiet spot for the equine, and then again, perhaps the animal was accustomed to the noise of falling water. At any rate, there he was, and he wasn't making any fuss about it.

So far, Pa Newc, has been unable to discover any New Castle citizens quite bold enough to appear on the main street, clad in a suit of pajamas, although he has often felt that way himself.

frontier follows a decision taken by Soviet revolutionary military council 24 hours ago to strengthen the military position in Siberia and especially in the region of the Manchurian border.

All armed Red forces are being united in that zone under command of Gen. Blucher, an experienced army officer who commanded the Reds in the Far East during the long period of civil warfare.

It is understood that he was at one time military adviser to the Chinese Nationalists with whom the Soviets are now at loggerheads.

The Chinese military authorities in Manchuria are reported to be establishing fortifications on the frontier where the Chinese, eastern railway crosses into Siberia, reinforcing their frontier guards and increasing the number of military planes all along the border line.

forward. It was an excerpt of one of his recent sermons and was appropriate for this occasion.

From California Mrs. Margaret Thomas, Dodd of California arose and said that she had come from the far off western state. Today she is at the Old Timers' picnic at Cascade Park. Mrs. Stockman Garvin who has been an invalid for some time was present as was Mrs. Anna Welsh from Washington, D. C. Mrs. Alice Pollard O'Donnell, aged 85, was the oldest in attendance. She lives here.

Eleven of the former students, who were present when the association was first organized 22 years ago were in attendance for the exercises yesterday. Among the number were also four old-time teachers at Reynoldstown.

During the afternoon, Mrs. Pollock called the roll of the members. Following this she read the names of departed members since the association was formed it was shown 125 have passed out.

New officers for the ensuing year were selected and Mrs. McGurk, the third vice president, was elevated to the office of president by acclamation. Other officers chosen and unanimously approved by the members were as follows:

Recount: Thrills One interesting story recounted at yesterday's reunion was the one which told of the school house being struck by lightning. As hear as could be determined it was back in 1878 on a day when school was in session. Martin Gantz, then the principal of the school and later city superintendent, happened to be inspecting the building at the time.

The storm came up quickly but little did it bother the pupils who were busy at their studies. Suddenly a bolt struck the building; the men say wood fell past the first floor windows and a near panic almost resulted. They recall how everyone rushed for exits thinking the school on fire.

With the aid of the teachers and Mr. Gantz the school sessions were soon resumed. The situation was well in hand as soon as teachers stopped the rush. The building was damaged to some extent but no fire occurred.

This and other stories were recalled by the old timers during the meeting. Shortly after four o'clock the program had been dispensed with and the meeting adjourned.

Following the school reunion, the crowd went to Cascade Park, but what they call Big Run, and had picnic suppers in the grove. There old acquaintances were renewed and new ones made.

Featuring the reunion was the unanimous vote to continue the meetings each year. It was reported that some talk favored disbandment but when this became known the Reynoldstowners, loyal to their school, voted 100 per cent to meet each year. STAR LORE
THE MOST ANCIENT OF HUMAN RELICS

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter. While the rocks overlying the earth give proof of being at least 1,000 million years old, life of man on the planet evidently appeared at the 11th hour, for the latest evidence shows that he has been here about 1,000,000 years. The man who has brought the latest evidence to light is H. J. Hensley of Ipswich, England, who in 1869 discovered flint implements of human design, in what is known by geologists as the Pliocene. White Crag deposit. Henry Fairfield Osborn, a distinguished authority, contends that the geological location of these implements gives them a date of 1,300,000 years B. C.

Steel Production Remains Unchanged
(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 14.—Seasonal curtailment is making itself felt in the steel industry, Iron Age magazine will say in its weekly review tomorrow, but thus far the chief effects have been a decline in backlogs and a shortening of deliveries. Production was reported not to have been reduced.

Pittsburgh again showed a slight falling off with Chicago running at capacity, because of the demand for pipe. Quicker deliveries and a return to monthly buying were noted by Iron Age but the magazine attached little importance to the change since heavy forward obligations are no longer necessary.

"The growth of miscellaneous uses for mill products has made it more difficult to gauge the steel consumption," Iron Age will say. "At the same time the wide diversification of demand makes for a more even flow of business, with increased consumption in some directions tending to neutralize declines in others."

Recovery uncertain
An upturn in specifications from Cleveland Automobile manufacturers was seen by the magazine as an indication of general recovery in the automotive demand, the largest consuming group. The large stock of used cars, however, made general recovery somewhat uncertain, according to Iron Age.

"Railroads placed 75 percent of the fabricated steel work awarded during the week, which totalled 43,000 tons," Iron Age will say. "The railroad equipment market is also more active, with new inquiries out for 1,300 freight cars. Aggressive selling of Alabama iron has further accentuated competition in northern markets. The attention of southern producers also has turned to Europe."

"Iron Age composite price for finished steel declined to 2.398¢ a pound from 2.412¢."

Evangelist Plans Week's Subjects

Rev. R. A. Buzza To Discuss The Non-Church Member Tonight

Rev. R. A. Buzza, evangelist of Meadville, preached before a large audience at the Gospel Center Tabernacle meeting last night. For his subject he chose the theme from John 3:2 "Ye Must Be Born Again."

Interesting to many will be the message he will bring tonight on the subject "Why Are So Many People Out Of The Church?" His answer to the question promises to bring out the why of the non-church members today.

Rev. Buzza is a past evangelist for the Erie conference of the Methodist church of Meadville, but for the past 16 years he has served as an evangelist.

Other subjects he plans to discuss are "Is Hell A Myth?" on Friday evening, and "Popular Amusements" on Sunday night. The latter is being given due to numerous requests which have been made.

Overflow Crowd Hears Evangelist

An overflow audience again greeted last night in the Alliance tabernacle. His subject for the evening was "Will a man reap that which he sows?" He stated in a most convincing way that the Bible is true and that a man does reap what he sows.

Then here was a clash between the opposing lawyers. The only thing the judge seemed interested in, according to the letter, was whether the girl is under or over sixteen years of age. The judge appeared to favor the prosecution as is represented by Elias. The defense then asked for one week of time and that was refused and the hearing is scheduled for today.

Omar is out under $500 bail. The father is not only endeavoring to bring his daughter back here, but also filled as the Evangelist closed the service.

The subject tonight will be "A King, Four Lepers and a Fool." The Evangelist will also tell of the conversion of Willie Adams, a murderer. In the three remaining evenings he will give his life story and his wonderful conversion in the Arizona state prison.

An overflow audience again greeted last night in the Alliance tabernacle. His subject for the evening was "Will a man reap that which he sows?" He stated in a most convincing way that the Bible is true and that a man does reap what he sows.

Then here was a clash between the opposing lawyers. The only thing the judge seemed interested in, according to the letter, was whether the girl is under or over sixteen years of age. ENVIRONMENT

THE old dispute whether environment or heredity is the determining factor in shaping men's lives will not down. In one form or another scientists are helping to throw light on it. Current tests and investigations have brought out new facts relating to the influence of climate on mankind.

For example, there is indicated a southward decline in the production of leaders. At first glance the cause for this might seem to be climatic. But detailed studies of various sections show that in regions with similar climate there may be great disproportions in the production of notables.

One scientist contends that the yield of eminent men depends chiefly upon the characteristics of the population, especially their ideals. If this is true, it is an indictment of the South which no one who knows the Southern people will be willing to accept.

Better buttressed is the assertion that the yield of notables in proportion to population is greatest in the select suburbs or residential sections of large cities, followed by college towns, and then by the smaller county seats.

Although this latter conclusion flies in the face of the tradition that country boys have developed into most of the nation's leaders, there are obvious indications that the advantages of living conditions, educational opportunities and mental stimuli in the suburban and town regions named are greater than in remote rural sections. It is generally conceded that the more active, aggressive and successful types gravitate to the larger towns.

RURAL THIEVERY

LIKE everything else in the way of money-making, or getting, thievery in all its branches has advanced to a large scale. Instead of the lazy dandy who used to steal a hen or two on a moonless night, the rural districts are now infested by efficient bands of chicken thieves who make away with every fowl on several farms as one night's work.

The theft of a thousand hens or turkeys, which is said to be fairly common in many sections, sounds hazardous. So many quacking fowls would wake the countryside. But the thieves permit no sound. They release a little gas in the hen-house and after the birds fall from the roost temporarily unconscious they dump them in bags and carry them away in trucks.

Gradually the rural states are becoming as well organized against the chicken thief as they once were against the cattle and horse thief. The time is near at hand when the country will be safe for poultry raising.

Large rewards, severe penalties, relentless pursuit of chicken thieves, state police organizations and registration of poultry dealers and poultry sales are combining to make this form of thievery highly hazardous. The registration of poultry dealers and poultry sales has been tried in some states with considerable success.

Poultry raising has become one of the nation's largest industries, a fact, combined with its staggering losses through thefts, which warrants additional protection from state and local governments.

SERVANTS OF THE PUBLIC

THE great army of federal employees rarely gets public attention. It has no bands, no parades. Its members wear no uniforms to distinguish them from other men and women on the street. Yet it is a real army, several hundred thousand strong. Its members are faithful public servants, reasonably hard working and for the most part unaffected by passing scandals.

Conditions in the federal civil service are still short of the ideal. Veteran preference continues to present a difficult problem. The present retirement act should be more generous in the case of some groups of workers, and federal salaries, while they have been increased in recent years, are far from excessive.

No taxpayer resents paying a necessary government employee a fair wage and a just pension upon retirement. When John Smith, taxpayer, kicks, it is because he has reason to believe that his government is over-manned at his expense but for the benefit of the politicians.

Those who have not had a vacation had better get a move on.

Of all the serial stories still running, the hardest by far to keep track of is the changing Chinese political situation.

Probably no one can look any hotter in July than a motorist manipulating a demountable rim tool by the roadside, unless it is the iceman's new helper.

Another fearful interlude in the growing child's career is when he or she discovers that by pressing a watermelon seed between the fingers it can be made to pop across a dinner table.

Once More—Come West.

Farrell, Sloan, Ford.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1929, King Features

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 14.—In making plans for travel Americans should remember that California is a summer resort as well as a winter resort.

Today, in this city the climate is much like that of New York in the middle of June—cool, bracing.

You should come west, see everything between the two oceans, then travel industriously up and down the American side of this biggest ocean.

S. W. Strauss, intelligent American who started in Chicago and has spread all over the country, came out here and made a few purchases about nine years ago. He bought among other things 22 acres on Wilshire boulevard for $300,000. He has been offered, and has refused, $2,000,000 for a strip 150 feet deep and 600 feet long, on the boulevard. If he sold that, he would have 20 of his 22 acres left, with plenty of room for his Ambassador Hotel.

The Biltmore Hotel opened its new addition, adding 500 rooms, last year, and is crowded already.

A new hotel, 40 stories in height, is planned for Wilshire boulevard. This city moves forward, and its population of 1,400,000 grows like a rolling snowball.

A seat on the Los Angeles stock exchange cost $30,000 three years ago. It costs $150,000 today. You may remember that this column suggested a seat as a profitable purchase.

Los Angeles stores like stores in New York and Chicago are establishing branches outside of the congested downtown districts. "Bullock's," an ably managed store, has opened a big branch in the residence and retail district of Wilshire boulevard called "Bullock's Wilshire Boulevard."

When George Young, of the Los Angeles Examiner, and Dr. Barnham of the Los Angeles Herald, were urging day in and day out the building of the Boulder Dam it was said that the cost could not be paid off in fifty years, because "Southern California could not absorb 1,000,000 horsepower so quickly."

Dr. Elwood Maud, in charge of the dam building, under the Secretary of the Interior, told Denver, yesterday, that the National Government has received from the Los Angeles municipal plant, the Southern California Edison Company, and other power companies, bids for double the power available from the proposed dam.

It is now suggested that the dam be built 25 feet higher, greatly increasing its power supply. And soon another dam farther up will have to be constructed to supply more power.

These details of profit and progress may sound sordid. But they interest everybody in the United States. The forty-eight states are one. Whatever helps any part of the United States or any citizen of the United States helps the whole country. And whatever hurts any place or person hurts everybody.

To say that millions of people in the East could find on this coast long life, plenty of sunshine, a perfect climate, summer and winter, fertile soil, unlimited power, is to send good news to the whole country.

Everybody is glad to hear that his uncle in Australia is doing well. He MAY get some of that uncle's money. Everybody should be glad to hear that his brother Americans in Los Angeles, San Diego, San Francisco, Seattle, all along the whole coast are doing well. He is CERTAIN to share in that growing prosperity.

Great industrialists of the United States, Alfred Sloan, Jr., the head of General Motors, Henry Ford, President Farrell of the United States Steel Corporation, should and eventually will establish important plants on this coast.

Many of them have made a start. General Motors has assembling plants up and down the coast, so has Henry Ford.

The United States Steel Corporation has the Columbia Steel Company, most important on the coast, with headquarters in San Francisco. Mr. Farrell evidently knows that there is cheap power and plenty of iron here. If necessary he can bring his special ores from Cuba all the way by water to cheap power plants on the edge of the Pacific.

See this country, all of it, between the two oceans, from Canada to Mexico.

You can come by many railroads, by ship through the Canal, or by any one of 24,000,000 American automobiles.

NO EXCUSE FOR NOT COMING.

WHAT'LL HE DO WITH HIS HANDS

In a town near New Castle lives a merchant, small in stature with a large dominant better half who is greatly annoyed by his habit of standing with his hands shoved deep into his trousers pockets. When repeated lectures failed to break him of the custom, the lady proceeded to close the pockets on the sewing machine, and being small and a lover of peace, the merchant wears them that way.

About a million and a half automobile drivers were warned by the highway police of Pennsylvania during the first seven months of this year to watch their step. "Five dollars for a horse?"

"Sure, it's only got one eye," suggested the farmer.

"One eye, did you say?" replied the storekeeper.

"How do you get that way?" Can't you see the intelligent brute is giving me the wink not to accept your offer?"

The clerk shook his head mournfully.

"No," he said, "I didn't break it off."

"Oh, she broke it off, then?"

The clerk did not answer, so the curious friend questioned again.

"But it's broken off, isn't it?"

"Oh yes," explained the clerk.

"She told me how much her milliner's bill was, and I told her how much I got a week. Then our engagement just sagged in the middle and gently dissolved."

Obsolete Methods Are Blamed
For British Textile Trouble

American Observers Appreciate Tremendous Task Of Labor
Government Which Came Into Power With Tie-Up Pending

The causes and consequences of the strike or for the condition which caused the wage dispute, since "no-tolerance" by the press on this side of the Atlantic, with appreciation of the effect upon American trade and a rather generally expressed feeling that failure of the industry to keep pace with modern conditions is largely responsible for the trouble.

The British textile industry is resorting to the old and suicidal policy of cutting wages to boost profits," says the HOUSTON CHRONICLE. "That could never be done to any advantage; it can't be done at all in this day of modern industry."

According to the NEW ORLEANS TIMES-PICAYUNE: "When labor goes on the rampage to secure higher pay, the event may be spectacular and have a lot of whoopee behind it, but rarely is there then met the same determination and bitterness that exist when, after having accustomed themselves and their families to the higher wage scale, workers face the necessity of cutting down to a lower standard of living."

An explanation of the out proposed by the mill owners is given by the MUSKOGEE CHRONICLE: "Half a million textile workers are out on strike in Great Britain against a proposed reduction of their pay from the equivalent of $11.08 weekly for men and $7.20 weekly for women to $9.54 for men and $6.48 for women. That is an almost sickening statement," continues this paper, as it characterizes the cause.

A "starvation wage" to a "sub-standard level," and says: "Almost we had supposed such penalty as that for workers had been left behind a century ago in all but semi-civilized lands."

Citing the London Express as its authority, the DES MOINES TRIBUNE-CAPITAL points to "declarations by an unnamed textile authority to the effect that the whole cotton industry in England is obsolete in its organization, its method and its equipment," and says, in comment upon this statement: "Since that charge has not only been made but pretty well proven in the case of our New England textile mills, it will seem a fair plausible with reference to the English."

Elaborating on this phase of the situation, the KANSAS CITY STAR notes that "more and more cotton is being spun near the fields where it is picked. Except for the existence of the mills and a supply of skilled operatives," The Star continues, "there is little reason for hauling cotton to Lancashire to have it manufactured. Moreover, the cotton industry in England has failed to keep pace with its foreign competitors, particularly in matters of organization. For one thing there are too many small independent establishments and this is the day of quantity production."

That the workers are alive to this situation is emphasized by the HANCOCK QTY. SPECTATOR in its editorial remarks: "The trades union leaders insist that the employers, in demanding a lower wage standard before such reorganization has been undertaken, are putting the cart before the horse," says the Canadian daily. "They go so far as to say that acceptance of the proposed reduction would be to postpone the day of salvation for the industry, by making it possible for the obsolete methods to continue—which would be merely deferring the inevitable."

That England will not be the only loser if the strike continues is recognized in many quarters. Says the MANCHESTER UNION: "It is apparent that the stagnation of the British cotton market will be keenly felt by the American cotton growers, and that it is likely to more than offset the advantage gained by our textile mills."

The INDIANAPOLIS NEWS warns: "How extensive the situation's ramifications are is indicated by the fact that four-fifths of Lancashire's output is intended for export. Thus British apprehension over the closing of the plants for even a brief period since, and almost before the Labor ministry has got comfortably established in the seats of power, one of the greatest industrial crises in the nation's history, a strike in Lancashire's great cotton industry, should have occurred." The ASHEVILLE TIMES thinks that "if Prime Minister MacDonald and Miss Bondfield, Minister of Labor can effectively intervene for the ending of the strike and the rehabilitation of the industry, it will be a great send-off for the Labor Government."

The CHICAGO DAILY NEWS makes it clear that "the labor government is not responsible for the strike or for the condition which caused the wage dispute, since "no-tolerance" by the press on this side of the Atlantic, with appreciation of the effect upon American trade and a rather generally expressed feeling that failure of the industry to keep pace with modern conditions is largely responsible for the trouble.

80th Division Vets Will Meet In Washington

Many Features Planned For Tenth Reunion To Be Held In Nation's Capital

NEW CASTLE MEN MEMBERS OF UNIT

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 14.—Many special entertainment features will mark the 10th National reunion of the veterans of the 80th Division, A. E. F., which will open here Sunday, August 18th, and close on Wednesday, August 21st.

An open-air memorial service in the Amphitheatre at Arlington with musical selections by the United States Army Band will officially open the convention Sunday. An air show at Bolling Field, a cavalry maneuver at Fort Myer, a reception to the delegates on the White House lawn by President Hoover, a trip to Mount Vernon on board Navy vessels, inspection of the navy yard, visit to Annapolis and other surrounding points, a divisional banquet, a military ball, and numerous other events make up the program for the four days the veterans will be in Washington.

Reduced rates have been granted to the veterans and members of their families on all railroads, and special concessions will be made by the Washington hotels. Blanks necessary to secure the reduced railroad fare are being issued by the headquarters of the 80th Division Veterans Association in the Plaza Building, Pittsburgh.

Approximately 30,000 men who served with the division live in Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia, New York, New Jersey and Ohio, for which Washington forms a central meeting point. Many will also come from states in other sections of the country. Eastern and Western Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia are

Scout Camp News

Thirty boys were initiated into the mysteries of the Royal Order of Siam Tuesday evening at Boy Scout camp. The new campers enjoyed the parade and received quite a warm welcome from the older boys. Campers who were initiated into the order are Bud Gordon, Vergil Saxton, Bob McCaslin, Bob Gwin, Heber Baldwin, Bob Emery, John Sucu, Norman Wadlinger, Bob Denny, Arsen Armond, Tom Donnell, Bill Bo-ward, Wilbur Stevens, Jim Taylor, Joe Todd, Bill Fair, Louis Allen, Vic Wagner, John Young, Bill Lee, Harry Brown, John Eckleberger, Paul Mills, Bernard Carlin, Joe Frazer, Leonard Trushel, Francis Davis, Dave Sleppy, Mike Quinn and Ray Haley.

A hike to the game farm in the afternoon under the leadership of Melvin Morehouse proved highly instructive and interesting to a group of 12 scouts. The Indians enjoyed an afternoon of boating under the supervision of P. L. Ueber.

A third group of the boys took a nature study hike across country to Muddy Creek Falls with leader, Baldy Watson. Some excellent scores were turned in by the boys who played a round of strategy golf. Mac Leslie is instructor of the new sport which has been a camp favorite all season.

John Eckleberger, leader of Hut C, A. Martin with Paul Mills, Bernard Carlin and Joe Frazer captured inspection honors again with the highest possible score. Joe Frazer also of Hut Martin was high point scorer with 180 points. Second place goes to Bob Emery with Bud Gordon and Sandy Howard tied for third.

Jim Donnelly, George Thorne and Frank Peterson were selected as color guards for this evening's flag ceremony.

WHY QUEENS LEAVE HOME.

A bee flew up to the largest cell in the wall. Another flew to the cell next to it. Then the wall seemed alive with bees. Whence had they come from? What were they doing? Peter, fascinated, watched them. His eyes grew round as the little saucer before him. He caught his breath. Surprise held him spell-bound. The bees were actually opening the doors of the cells and thrusting something into them, then hastily closing the doors and flying to other cells the doors of which had not been opened. So fast they worked that they seemed to fly round and round in circles. The moving masses made Peter dizzy.

At last curiosity got the better of Peter as curiosity always did sooner or later and he could hold back his questions no longer. He turned to the Queen.

"What are those bees doing, Your Majesty?" demanded Peter. "I have been watching them closely but they are so quick I can't make out quite what they are up to." The Queen chuckled.

"I don't wonder," said she. "It would be hard for any one who did not know our customs to solve the puzzle. As bright eyes as yours have tried before this and failed. Those bees you see are the Nurse bees and they are feeding our babies. In those narrow cells are the grubs who are going to come into the world as workers—they receive a dinner of bread. The grubs in those great round cells will be born Queens—royal to the last hair on their bodies. The nurses are providing them with the daintiest of foods."

"Queen Bees" exclaimed Peter. "Why do you raise more Queens? What do you want with them? You rule wisely and well and your people love you. You mean princesses don't you? Won't the babies be little, I thought, a Queen had to be quite grown up!"

"You don't know a thing about us do you?" The Queen smiled upon Peter a little sadly the boy thought.

"Yes, 'tis true, my subjects love me now at least most of them do but sun there are some of them who long for a change in government and a new ruler. And it is up to me to give my people what they want if it is good for them. So when the new Queens come I shall slip away. Those who really love me will follow me. The others will stay behind and swear allegiance to the new Queen. For there can be but one queen at a time in a hive!"

"But where will you go if you leave home, dear Queen?" asked Peter anxiously. He feared for his royal friend's safety.

"I shall start a new kingdom of course," declared the Queen. "And I shall rule over it until the time comes to do the same thing all over again."

"This time Peter was sure he saw a tear in Her Majesty's eye. But being a mere boy he didn't know what to say that might comfort her. So he kept a sympathetic silence.

Bo-Broadway

by JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

By Central Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Bob Mayer, Broadway's oldest First Nighter has quit in disgust. For 45 years he and his mother attended every important theatrical opening, occupying always the same seats, A 1 and 3.

First nighting isn't what it used to be since wealthy bootleggers have taken to the pastime. Then too there is an amount of stamania required. In the old days there was one opening a month, sometimes two and possibly three. Now there are 60. And the first night of a majority of them is almost the last night.

WASTED AFFECTION.

I just received a letter from "Mark A. Skinner, President" with a Denver date line. He addresses me as "Dear Stockholder" and goes on to say that "a very rich vein of ore has been opened up in what is known as 'Raise B' extending east from the Cowenoven Tunnel and indications are we are on the edge of a large stope of very rich ore."

Whenever anything like this happens in the mining world some perfect stranger with my interest at heart rushes to his typewriter, calls me "Dear Stockholder" and tells me all about it.

I wish they wouldn't do it. I'm so unworthy.

OH, THESE GOVERNMENTS!

A gentleman named Vaine with foreign leanings, stowed away two months ago on a steamer leaving New York, vaguely hoping he might get back to his native Belgrade. Through a clerical error he picked a ship that was going to Rotterdam. In Rotterdam he stowed on another. It went to Southampton. This time he picked the Majeestic which arrived here the other day. He will be sent back to Southampton where officials will send him to Rotterdam. There the immigration service will see that he gets back to New York and then he'll go to Southampton again and after he's been making the circle for several years he will be given a medal for having solved the perpetual motion problem.

VER' LATEST.

The latest Park avenue annual chaser is a gastronomic tour of the world in a luncheon consisting solely of exotic dishes. The menu of one of these recent long distance feeds included bird-nest soup, sharks' fins, camel hump, whale steak and bear sirloin. Another began with Chinese sausage, composed of pork and soy bean cheese perfumed with altar of roses. Brazilian fish ragout was the next dish, followed by Bokhara wild sheep served with sweet potatoes and grass from Madagascar. Pip liver with sauce from Madagascar. Pip liver with sauce from Madagascar. Pip liver with sauce from Madagascar.

room of the New York World which he invaded for the purpose of pointing out to McLaglen the desk occupied by Winnie Sheehan Big Boss of the Fox outfit. Sheehan worked on the World 25 years ago and naturally Mr. Frances had his own troubles. Everyone pointed out a different desk—even the desk occupied by the hall porter.

Before leaving he did manage to secure some sentimental mementos—the original copy of a couple of one-alarm fire stories Sheehan wrote, neither of which was ever printed. When it is recalled that O. Henry once wrote for the World and that his "copy" was thrown into the waste basket as soon as the stuff was printed it's a great tribute to Brother Sheehan that the paper held on to his stuff all these years.

So live that you never disappoint your press agent.

Once you drive a new Dodge Six, you'll never cease to marvel at its dash, its vim, its sparkling alacrity. It is so much more than just a piece of machinery. It is fairly surcharged with life and animation—alive with spirit and the will to go. It typifies the finest, most modern design and construction. In the quality of its materials and the precision with which it is manufactured it is unsurpassed. Rosena Furnace Site Suggested For Playground

American Legion Favors Spot
As Central Location For Children Of City

WILL MAKE STRONG BID FOR CONVENTION

Suggestion that city council be informed of the desirability of the old Rosena furnace site for use as a public playground, was made at the meeting of the Perry S. Gaston post, American Legion, last evening.

The matter was discussed by the legionnaires at some length. In view of the fact that citizens of the city will be asked to vote on a bond issue for public improvements, which will include a sum for playgrounds, the post went on record as recommending that council inquire into the feasibility of securing this location for this purpose.

Not only is the site in the center of the city, but it could be beautified and a bathing pool erected in the river immediately adjacent, members of the post pointed out.

To ask for Convention.
That the post is making preparations to present a strong bid for the 1931 session of the state department of the Legion was brought out during the meeting. Commander Ivor V. Davis was named chairman of a committee to present the proposition before the time and place committee during the coming state convention at Scranton.

New Castle will be represented by a large delegation at the state convention and they have already procured a large banner stating that New Castle desires the 1931 convention be held in this city. This will be placed in a conspicuous place in the convention hall during the sessions the last of this month.

Last night's meeting was a most interesting one in many respects. A number of civic projects were discussed and indications pointed to the Legion taking an active part in such matters in the immediate future.

To Welcome Scouts.
Gordon Klein, chairman of the Boy Scout committee, outlined a number of projects which the committee has in view, chief among which are taking Boy Scouts to the city to Pittsburgh on August 31 for the ball game between the Pirates and Cubs, to which they have been invited by the management of the Pittsburgh club; and the welcoming home of the Boy Scouts who are now in England for the international jamboree.

A committee consisting of Charles E. Allen, chairman; Gordon Klein and Guy Wadlinger was named to cooperate with a similar committee consisting of W. H. Claple, Frank Nessler and Charles E. Allen from the Harry L. McBride post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, in arranging a farewell testimonial to Pat J. Dempsey, retiring secretary of the Lawrence county chapter of the American Red Cross, who has been extremely active in veteran affairs for a number of years.

Wood Resigns.
The resignation of Frank Woods as trustee was accepted by the post and H. H. Rosenthal was named to succeed him. The post suggested that members of the board of directors of the Legion Home association consider him for the vacancy on the board of directors which will result from Mr. Woods' resignation from this board, also.

Robert Armstrong and Thomas Edmunds were named heads of a committee to boost the proposition of securing a private car to the national convention in Louisville during the first three days in October. If 25 members sign up to make the trip, a car can be chartered at a reduced rate. Already in the neighborhood of a dozen men have signed up to attend, and more than enough to secure a car is expected.

Correct this sentence: "All the boys pet her," said the gossip. "And she could marry any one of them if she wished."

Sum For EducationValue Of School Buildings In Entire State Is $507,417-
115, Survey Shows

HARRISBURG, Aug. 14.—The largest capital outlay per pupil for educational purposes is in the class of school districts in which New Castle is included. To this class also goes the credit of assigning fewer pupils to one teacher on the average than in any other class of districts, thereby permitting more individual attention for each pupil.

The class of districts which possesses these two advantages is the second class. The 18 districts in the class are Allentown, Altoona, Bethlehem, Chester, Easton, Erie, Harrisburg, Hazleton, Lancaster, McKeesport, New Castle, Norristown, Pottsville, Reading, Scranton, Wilkes-Barre, Williamsport and York.

The only comparative standard in which these second class school districts do not lead in offering educational opportunities to the next generation is in the average value of school buildings. Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, the only first class districts of the state, take the lead there; but the second class districts rank second. Comparisons are taken from a survey by the department of public instruction, covering the 2581 school districts of the state. In addition to the two first class districts and the 18 second class districts, there are 214 third class districts, including the smaller cities, boroughs and first class township and 2347 fourth class or rural school districts.

Value Is Huge.
The total value of real estate devoted to public school service in the state is $507,417,115, the survey shows. Philadelphia and Pittsburgh have spent $148,505,834 upon 484 school buildings, or an average of $306,830 per building. This average is highest in the state. In the second class districts there are 477 school buildings, which cost $91,505,401 or an average of $191,835 each. Third class school districts have 1837 buildings costing a total of $148,833,008, or an average of $75,580 per building. The fourth class or rural districts spent $120,522,875 for 10,838 buildings, with the low average of only $11,018 per building. The average cost per building in the state is $36,573, an average so low because almost 57 per cent of the 13,836 school buildings in the state are one-room schools. Most of the one-room buildings are in the rural districts.

Facilities Are Good.
Except in the average value per building, the second class districts make the best showing in facilities to train the rising generation.

These districts have the highest investment in real estate per pupil in the state. For every one of the 223,645 pupils in these districts, $409 has been spent in buildings, sites and equipment. In Philadelphia and Pittsburgh the average investment for each of the 387,286 pupils is $363. In third class districts there has been an average investment of $279 for each of the 525,241 pupils. In the fourth class or rural districts, only $181 investment is the average for each of the 747,251 pupils. The state-wide average is $269 capital outlay for each of the 1,883,423 pupils.

The second class districts also have reduced the number of pupils for which each teacher is responsible, to a lower figure than any other districts. In these districts there are 7474 teachers, or one teacher for each 29.9 pupils. In Philadelphia and Pittsburgh there are 11,538 teachers, but the average is only one teacher for every 33.6 pupils, the largest average number of pupils assigned to each teacher of any class of districts in the state. Third class districts have 16,039 teachers, which enables them to assign 32.7 pupils as an average to each teacher. Despite the large number of one-room schools, fourth class districts with 24,510 teachers, have one teacher for every 30.3 pupils. With a total of 59,661 teachers, the average in the state is 31.5 pupils for every teacher.

The inference to be drawn from the results of the survey is that while school children in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh may have the pleasure of attending larger, more ornate and more expensive buildings, the greater advantages of equipment per pupil and more individual attention from teachers is granted to the children of the cities of slightly less population which form the school districts of the second class.

It Is Worthwhile to Stop and See the New Grand,
the Most Beautiful Gas Range Made

Select Your Range With Care

Do not make the mistake of thinking that all ranges are alike. There is as much difference in quality in ranges as in furniture and automobiles. A leading reason why Grand Ranges are so much better is the great care taken to select the materials and to make them up—only the finest grades of iron are used—the sides and linings are made from the highest grade of rust resisting steel—only Vitreous enamel, the highest grade porcelain, is used. The highest grade of skilled mechanics are employed to form and assemble them—each range is rigidly inspected before sent out—all these things could be done more cheaply, as some makers of cheap ranges do, but would not produce the fine working, soundly beautiful and solid enduring Grand Ranges that we now offer you. There is a style and size of Grand to meet every requirement.

Lamont Denies Hague Report

Thomas W. Lamont Will Not

Try For Settlement

PARLEY APPEARS
BRIGHTER TODAY

(International News Service)
LONDON, Aug. 14.—Thomas W. Lamont, banking partner of J. P. Morgan, denied today that he is planning to go to the Hague to advise the delegates to the reparations conference regarding revisions of the Young plan demanded by the British.

"I received an invitation several days ago from some of my former colleagues upon the Young committee to assist them in some of the present deliberations, but I decided that it would be wiser not to proceed to the Hague," Lamont said.

Looks Brighter
The Hague, Aug. 14.—Switching from an aggressive to a milder brand of diplomacy, the delegates in the Hague conference of British Labor government appeared today to be in sight of a satisfactory compromise agreement upon both reparations and evacuation of the Rhineland.

The financial committee met and terminated its consideration of deliveries in kind after a brief, general discussion.

The committee adjourned until Saturday, "in order to give the delegations an opportunity for holding informal conversations upon the questions raised."

It is understood a compromise agreement will be worked out regarding evacuation under which withdrawal of troops from the Rhineland will be under way before Christmas.

On the financial side of the dispute efforts are still under way to bridge the gap caused by the demands of Phil Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer in the British government.

However, the speeches at this morning's session indicated that the delegates are practically agreed upon the creation of a sub-committee of the financial committee to deal with the intricate issues now pending.

of America, were brought here to the Field Museum of Natural History recently by Henry W. Nichols, leader of a museum expedition.

The expedition's operations were conducted chiefly in the San Mateo and Zuni mountains, especially in the vicinity of Mount Taylor, tallest peak of the region. Headquarters were maintained at Grant, New Mexico.

The collection obtained includes a vast amount of "volcanic bombs," ashes, lavas and other products of volcanic phenomena. Many of them are remarkable for their huge size and their fantastic forms. Several large slabs of "malpais" show how sharp needle and razor-blade-like points and edges form on the surface of lava waves while they are cooling and solidifying, as a result of the action of volcanic steam, wind and other forces.

Night Club Business In New York City Is Not Paying So Well

"Suckers" Fail To Bite Any more; Hostesses Lucky To Have Jobs

Summer Weather Causes Great Big Slump In Industry Of "Whoopie Making"

By LEONARD H. ARNOLD
International News Service Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—"Hello suckers," gets feeble response these days in Broadway Night Clubs, a survey today showed.

The answer is—the sucker crop has dropped sadly and little girls who get a hand get just about that and no more. Eighty per cent of the persons one finds in the white way caverns this summer are hostesses and entertainers and they are waiting for the seemingly inevitable finish.

Dying On Feet
New York's night club business, if all the evidence is as genuine as it is apparent, is dying on its feet. And one doesn't even talk about the tough times for the girls who made things go whoopee when there were whoopee-makers to whoop. There are so many "at liberty" that it has become more of a situation than a system.

Of course, there'd be someone to "wash in" amid all the sobs. The "agents"—certain unscrupulous ones—who land cabaret workers jobs have boosted their rates up and up. The old ten per cent fee is rare—twenty-five per cent comes closer to the average.

The night club hostess who can get a job considers herself a smart girl. If she can increase her $20 a week salary by entertaining a few straggling butter-and-eggers, she's smarter than that and a whole lot luckier. Of course, Broadway was always "dead" in the summer time. But nothing like it is this summertime. And it can't be blamed on the humidity—or even the heat.

No More "Suckers."
"It isn't the heat—it's the stupidity" was a good crack a while ago when it meant something. It doesn't mean a thing these days, because there has been an appalling sag in the influx of stupidity. And that is the nail that many Broadway observers are hitting accurately on the head. The "stupidity"—well, Texas Guinan calls them "suckers"—used to flock into New York from the farm—suffering hinterland and jam the night clubs with their "great big hands."

Commissioner Whalen, who usually isn't so reticent about such matters, refuses to say how many mid-town clubs have been closed by the recently active night raiders. There have been many. It's tough—the waiters are becoming bartenders in increasing numbers, since there appears to be no appreciable decrease in speakasies; the hostesses are seeking the "big hand" and any salary at all in Long Island and Connecticut road houses.

But if Barnum was right—and correctly quoted—perhaps the industry will improve. Anyway, they're praying for an increase in the birth-rate.

Believe Woman Victim Of Gang, Hurlled In River

Sand Barge Captain Tries Unsuccessfully To Rescue Woman

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The possibility that a young woman who drowned in the East river after being thrown from an automobile early today was "taken for a ride" by gangsters was considered by police.

Captain August Karlson was awakened shortly before dawn by the screams of a woman struggling in the water near his sand barge at the foot of 103rd street. He told police he saw several men get into an automobile near the post where she apparently had been thrown into the river and flee.

He threw her a line, which she grasped and then lost hold of as she sank. There were no marks of violence on the body, but all identification marks had been removed. The woman was about 30, well dressed, and wearing a diamond ring.

Tariff Program Proves Struggle For Committee

"Sundries" Duties Schedule To Be Completed Today Is Hope Of Committee

SUGAR SCHEDULE IS NOW MIRAGE

Republican Tariff Czars Give Tanning Industry Protecting Hand

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The highly controversial sugar schedule appeared as a mirage on the tariff horizon of the Senate Finance committee today as its Republican membership struggled vainly to complete the multi-itemed list of "sundries" duties.

Containing a thousand and one items, the "sundries" schedule presented far more complicated a task for the tariff-makers than any other in the new bill. Where other schedules have been disposed of after a half dozen economic battles, the sundries schedule provoked a thousand and one rate disputes.

The most important accomplishments of the Republican tariff czars in the last 24 hours included a final decision on all hides, leather and shoe rates, the placing of uncut diamonds on the free list, a general reduction of House rates on men's gloves, pearls, cut diamonds, ladies' fans and dolls, and approval of House increases on matches and cork.

New Rates Approved
The new hides, leather and shoe schedule, as approved by the Senate Republicans, follows:
Hides from cattle.—10 per cent ad valorem, same as House.
Sole or belting leather.—House rate of 12 1/2 per cent ad valorem increased to 15 per cent.
Leather wadding.—House rate of 12 1/2 per cent, increased to 15 per cent.
Patent and calf leather.—House rate of 15 per cent increased to 17 1/2 per cent.
Upholstery, glove and strap leather.—House rate of 20 per cent reduced to 17 1/2 per cent.
Embossed and ornamented leather.—House rate of 30 per cent reduced to 20 per cent.
Boots, shoes and footwear of leather.—House rate of 20 per cent approved.

Tanners Protected
The last minute increases of House rates were made to give the tanning industry the greatest protection in its history. The tanners had complained that existing law was forcing them into bankruptcy and that the House rates would not give sufficient relief. The Republican leaders said the changes would not result in any increase in the price of shoes as the shoe rate had been reduced, even though hides were taxed for the first time and leather on matches increased. The Senate Republicans meanwhile moved to wipe out diamond smuggling. The long standing 10 per cent ad valorem rate on uncut diamonds was eliminated. It was said this duty brought little revenue and caused heavy governmental expenditures in efforts to prevent smuggling into this country. The rate on pearls and cut diamonds was reduced from 20 to 10 per cent ad valorem for the same reason, the belief prevailing that the lower rate would make smuggling unprofitable.

Candidates Will Draw For Position

Announcement was made this morning by the county commissioners that drawings for position on the ballot at the primary election will be held in the offices of the commissioners in the court house on Tuesday morning, August 20, at 10 o'clock, daylight savings time. In the event that candidates fail to present themselves at the time appointed, the commissioners will make the drawing for them.

Fruit Inspection Breaks All Records

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, August 14.—Inspection of fruits and vegetables by the U. S. Department of Agriculture broke all previous records during the fiscal year just ended. A total of 266,381 inspections were made, of which 299,193 were at shipping points and 37,632 at terminal markets.

Every Automobile Must Be Examined

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Aug. 14.—Seventy-three hundred garages and service stations which last year were designated as "official" for examination of automobile equipment during the annual drive have been notified that no such designations will be made until their plants have been inspected and approved by the state highway patrol, Benjamin G. Eynon, commissioner of motor vehicles, said Tuesday.

The compulsory period for inspection of motor vehicles this year will be between October 1 and November 15. For thirty days after November 15 every automobile must bear an official tag certifying that its owner has paid for the inspection which state officials demand.

Eynon said that members of the motor patrol will check the equipment of all garages seeking application for designation as official stations and that none employing incompetent or dishonest mechanics will be recognized.

Each vehicle must be examined as to brake performance, steering mechanism, mirrors, headlamps and placing of the license tags. Eynon estimates that not more than twenty minutes should be required for an examination of a car whose driver keeps it in good condition at all times.

Owners of garages and service stations are required to answer a questionnaire detailing the number of mechanics employed, and the nature of the testing equipment possessed. Each owner or manager must sign the following pledge:

"In consideration of appointment as an official inspection station, I (we) hereby agree to inspect carefully every motor vehicle presented for inspection; to make required adjustment or repairs, when authorized by owner, at regular charges for such service; to use no unfair means in soliciting such work; to conduct the business in accordance with the regulations of the law and regulations for the motor vehicle equipment inspection; to issue certificate of inspection for motor vehicle only after testing them in the manner prescribed in the official instructions and finding them to be in safe operating condition and in conformance with the law."

Night Love Matches Ruin Tennis Courts

(International News Service)
TAUNTON, Mass., Aug. 14.—It is perfectly alright for love matches to be played on the public tennis courts here while Old Sol is wide awake but love matches on public courts at night will bring the players to another kind of court.

Particularly if instead of a tennis racket, the vehicle of the love game proves to be an automobile according to Chairman Joseph P. Murphy of the Playground commission who wanted to know why "of all the wide open spaces in this vicinity it was necessary to pick out the tennis courts."

It seems that "petters" had driven an automobile onto the courts and damaged them to such an extent that many hours were needed to repair them.

The longest day soon comes to an end.—Pliny the Younger.

Percy P. MacNab, "Apostle Of Pep" Thru Visiting, Ready To Go Home

When Percy P. MacNab, former resident of New Castle but now of Hollywood, Cal., departs from the city for his return to the west next Saturday, he will have completed what he says has been "the most enjoyable pleasure and business trip that he has ever taken."

Mr. MacNab, prominent in local civic activities before moving west, and now one of the leaders of the Hollywood community, came back to the "ol town" for a visit July 3.

Musicians of New Castle will remember him as an able leader of singing in various community affairs. He was a member of Rotary and led its singing. Mr. MacNab was actively engaged in the life insurance business but devoted considerable of his time to the Chamber of Commerce and the First Presbyterian church, of which organizations he was a member.

Changes Here

In an interview with a representative of The News today, Mr. MacNab recalls some of the interesting things of New Castle when he lived here. While his residence in the west has extended over a period of about six years, nevertheless the changes which have come about are striking enough to notice.

"One thing you have in New Castle and the east," he remarked with no little emphasis, "are the beautiful trees and hills. It does one a world of good to get back around his old home town and be able to take in the scenery this section affords. The west has little trees and out there the hills do not compare with yours."

On reaching the city last month, the former resident said he was surprised at the amount of business activity here.

Mr. MacNab compared Hollywood's rain pay roll to New Castle's smoke pay roll. "Out there," he said, "we have little rain. People run outside to watch when it does."

Were it not for the rain irrigation would be a problem, but since certain cooperative organizations have tanks at convenient locations where the water is stored, the matter is easily solved. It is pumped daily to irrigate the orange and lemon trees, and others.

Free From Smoke

Hollywood is free from the smoke that New Castle has, but Mr. MacNab quickly remarked that it is the city's pay roll. "It is interesting just to watch the black smoke bulging from the huge smokestacks at some of the local mills," he said.

Organization seem to be numerous in Hollywood just as they are here. Mr. MacNab claims membership in most of these. His connections in the insurance business has made him eligible to serve as a director of the Los Angeles Life Underwriters' association. He is the vice president of what is called the Macmen Club, an organization of churchmen which gets its name from the pastor of the First Presbyterian church there, Stewart F. MacLennan, D. D. The club has a membership of 1,000 and the church, 2,600. Mr. MacNab is the leader of music as well as for his Bible class which meets on Sunday morning. He is also a member of the National Exchange club.

The pastor, Dr. MacLennan, it has become known, was a classmate of Dr. Walter E. McClure, pastor of the local First Presbyterian church. Many hear Dr. MacLennan over the radio at different times for both of his sermons are broadcasted over Station KNX every Sunday.

Be A Booster

As a prescription for those ill with lack of community pride, Mr. MacNab said that the only way to back up a town is to get behind and boost. Greater success will be accomplished by getting behind New Castle industries. He said if New Castle is good enough to live in its worth your time and resources to get back of projects sponsored here. He attributes Hollywood's prominence and condition to the way the citizens there cooperate to boost the place. There is a more stabilizing effect on the minds of those in southern California primarily because of the boosting attitude the residents take.

"You have everything you can command at your disposal here in the city," MacNab reminded, "but why not make use of it. New Castle would be a greater city if the citizenry would grasp the opportunities."

"That Climate"

The interview went on and the reporter asked Mr. MacNab to tell something of southern California, and immediately his subject changed to the climate there. "This is the chief reason why people go there," he continued. "It is a real playground of the country."

He recalled the interesting meeting of Lawrence county folks at Los Angeles last March. "Each spring the tourists and those living there who have moved from the various states congregate at Sycamore Grove in that large city for a reunion. Of the Pennsylvania crowd last year, 62 were from this county," Mr. MacNab said.

"A quarter of a million tourists visit that part of California every winter. The fruit groves are abundant. All Sunkist oranges are shipped from there and the English walnuts are also numerous. Thirteen thousand cars of cantaloupes alone were shipped from the flourishing Imperial valley to all parts of the country last year." He also recalled the excellent harbor conditions there which affords a prosperous trade to the Orient. He said the real estate values there today are very high.

Los Angeles Growing

"Los Angeles itself has taken rapid strides within the last nine years. The population is now 1,427,000 having increased 567,000 persons during those nine years."

Speaking of field clubs, there are none in the west better than your own here, he said. The beautiful layout and surrounding of sloping hills are not to be compared with ours out there. The hills are a thorn in the back when it comes to playing golf on western courses.

Mr. MacNab said that traffic could learn much from the traffic regulations at Los Angeles. Rounding the corners of streets here is a great aid to traffic. There most of the intersections are so constructed.

As a climax to his eastern visit, Mr. MacNab will visit the Old Timers' picnic at Cascade today to renew and make new friendships. He has been unable to see scores of his former friends who he intended to visit, but it hoping for meetings tomorrow. Mr. MacNab is alone on his visit here, his wife who was the former Miss Alice Love and his daughter having remained at Hollywood. Both are well and are enjoying their residence in Hollywood.

In concluding the interview, Mr. MacNab said he could not forget the New Castle News. "It is the best newspaper, both from the standpoint of setup and editorials."

He paid a high compliment to all identified with The News for producing such a fine daily. Mr. MacNab said that his first thing immediately after returning from his office at home was to read The News which he has received each day since he moved from the city.

Mr. MacNab does not intend to go direct to Hollywood after leaving Saturday. For a short time he will visit relatives in other cities between here and the west, finally winding up at home.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Since yesterday's column was perpetrated a number of people have remarked upon the remarkable interview granted exclusively through this column by Wun Lung Gawn, a number of people have asked to meet the gentleman.

It cannot be done. No really. Dr. Gawn is not at home to visitors and the only way I got acquainted with him was by throwing him the sign of the dirty shirt. It's an old Chinese custom. He responded with the symbol of the linen collar and we were friends. When he has anything to say it will be through this column and no other place.

Wun Lung Gawn comes of an ancient family. Traces it clear back to the era of the short front dicky which is going back a long ways for ancestry.

If you happen to have a dollar handy tomorrow you can make it do tricks down town. From some of the bargains seen along the streets, one gathers that a dollar will buy just a trifle less than a complete wardrobe.

Expenses don't worry a newspaper man, he usually has a lot of them. But there is one debt that will have to be paid. Several days ago I needed a dime (no lady, not for a cup of coffee, they're just a nickel) for street car fare. One friend I tried to touch said he just had a dollar with him and dared me to try and get that. Ralph McGoun came to the rescue with a thin dime and hasn't been paid yet. Negotiations are now under way to liquidate the debt, for the matter of interest is pressing.

Lines to a Post Card.

"Oh send me a card from the places you visit, Paris, or Naples or old Tangle. But kindly lay off with those cards that inform me. Having a good time, wish you were here."

Got one of them Monday afternoon from the haven of oxides and groomed Niagara Falls, and it had the usual "having a good time, wish you were here." It's the bunk, customers, he didn't wish anything of the sort. And if I could have dropped in on him up at the Falls, the chances are he would have been sore.

Great day out at Cascade today. Old Timers are cutting up and 80 is 18 today. The folks are living over those days when hoop skirts were the thing, and "Old Black Joe" was considered a hot number.

Maybe they didn't live as fast in those days but they had just as much fun. And they weren't awakened out of a sound sleep by the neighbor's radio announcing that the "numbers" just presented were through the courtesy of the Miracle Wart Remover company, seen on every hand.

Neither did they have to fuss over covert charge. A horse and buggy and half a dollar saw a fellow through a big afternoon and evening. Now an automobile and a ten dollar bill just get him started.

There was more plowing and less golf shooting, more prayers and less cocktails, no flag pole sitters, no radio liars, no saxophone players and no luncheon club speakers with a message. But at that most of us wouldn't trade the old days for the present.

As a last line, not famous yet, perhaps, but still timely: Don't forget the ox roast at the Jordan game farm dedication on Saturday afternoon, August 24.

Bass Bite Better As Streams Clear

HARRISBURG, Aug. 14.—Reports to the Board of Fish Commissioners from its officers throughout the Commonwealth indicate that the break in the extremely hot weather has greatly improved the bass fishing and from now on fishermen should expect to find much better fishing in their favorite spots.

During the first few weeks of the season, very little good fishing was reported, in most sections of the Commonwealth. This was due reports said to the extremely poor condition of the water and the fact that the streams had not had a chance to clear.

The 1929 distribution of bass from the Board's hatcheries will commence some time this month and from all indications a million bass should be available for the streams and waters where they are suitable. The Board is confining its efforts to stocking only those waters which are suitable for bass and in most instances is sending fish to those waters throughout the Commonwealth which it thinks will furnish good bass fishing in the future.

Oppressed Males To Have Their Inning

Two Leagues Functioning In Vienna To Obtain Equal Rights For Oppressed Males

Allowing Women To Join League Becomes Controversial Point With Founders

By ALFRED TYRHAUER
International News Service Staff Correspondent
VIENNA, Aug. 14.—Two leagues are functioning in Vienna today to "obtain equal rights for oppressed males," but one of them is not striving so valiantly as it used to. The founder fell in love and decided to allow women themselves to join.

These two organizations are "Acquitas," the original organization, which has invited "honest" women to participate in its world conference here next month, and "Justitia," which is against all women.

When Herr Von Hoerberth, a divorced man of Vienna, formed the original league for the rights of men, he was outspoken in his criticism of laws and usages which gave men and especially married or divorced men "the worst of it." He had little use for women and female prerogatives and did not hesitate to say so. But when he fell in love everything was changed.

Founder Is Firm
Herr Kornbluh one of the founders of the original league, who remained firm in his anti-woman attitude, declared in an address to his colleagues: "Tread softly, my dear comrades, upon this floor because you are treading on one of my dreams."

Herr Von Hoerberth, who was known as an honorable divorced man, became entangled in a love affair, is seen in public places with a young woman, whom foolish youth would call a charming one, and has recently opened the doors of our league to women. This, I regard, as a desecration of our sublime ideal.

This was the first serious discord among the fighters for the "emancipation of men." It led to the secession of one faction from the original league and the creation of "Justitia."

Herr Von Hoerberth remained president of "Acquitas" while Herr Kornbluh was chosen president of the hundred per centers of "Justitia."

The world conference in Vienna sponsored by "Acquitas" is scheduled to open on September 25. Its program, as previously outlined by Herr Von Hoerberth calls for inauguration of an international movement for reform of marriage and divorce laws, especially laws relating to alimony. It is claimed that "unprincipled women" purposely marry men with the idea of obtaining divorces and alimony later on.

"Justitia" is opposed to the present movement to bestow still further political liberties upon women, who, it is claimed, are "forgetting their natural duties."

GRAF ZEPPELIN READY TO START WORLD JOURNEY

out of range of radio stations capable of giving weather reports.

Dr. Eckener will have to depend upon the few existing air navigation charts of the region to be traversed and his own keen sense of direction and weather. The air charts available are regarded as woefully inadequate.

The Zeppelin will follow a northern course over Siberia which will bring her within the Arctic Circle and less than 900 miles from the north pole.

A tentative decision to take this route was made following a conference attended by Dr. Eckener and a number of meteorological experts.

To Avoid Dangers
By going far to the north, the Zeppelin will avoid the dangers of inland storms and typhoons which are numerous in central and southern Asia at this time of the year.

Everything is in readiness for the start of the flight. The airship has been refueled and completely inspected.

A maximum of fuel which will permit the Graf to remain aloft 180 hours has been stored aboard although the flight is not expected to take more than 120 hours.

10,000 CYCLISTS HONOR DEAD
Nearly 10,000 cyclists, many of whom had ridden all night from the extremes of England and Wales, gathered on a recent Sunday morning before the national cyclists' memorial at Meriden, believed to be the exact center of England. About 3,000 of the cyclists were girls, and most of them wore cycling breeches. A brief service was held at the memorial, which was erected seven years ago to commemorate cyclists killed in the World War.

Another Yost Threat

Calendar Committee Makes Report Today

National Calendar Committee Makes Detailed Report To Secretary Stimson

Committee Decides That New Calendar With Thirteen Month Most Suitable

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The world movement for calendar simplification was given impetus today with the presentation to Secretary of State Stimson of a report from the national committee headed by George Eastman of Rochester, N. Y., urging participation of the United States at a conference under the auspices of the League of Nations.

"Although our committee finds that opinion in this country relative to the best plan for calendar change to adopt, preponderantly favors the 13 months fixed calendar, it does not recommend that representatives of the U. S. government should enter an international conference committee to this plan or any other," the report said.

The committee gave more than a year's study to the subject, the report said, and found that three conditions exist to justify participation by the United States in a world conference.

Conditions Laid Down:
"The prevalence of a demand for calendar improvement on the part of a large and representative body of American opinion.

A growing recognition by the general public of the grave defects of the present calendar, a lively interest in the methods by which these can be overcome, and an intelligent understanding of the principles of the calendar reform.

"The actual experience of many business concerns with the use of private simplified calendars to secure more accurate accounting in the business affairs, and their practically unanimous judgment in favor of the general simplification of the civil calendar."

The Eastman committee expressed the hope that an international conference could be held in the near future in order that an agreement be reached by 1933, January 1, 1933 falls on a Sunday and that would be the most convenient date for a change, it recommended. Another such opportunity will not occur until 1939 the report said.

Questionnaires sent out by the committee brought replies from more than 80 per cent favorable to a change in the calendar with a preponderance favoring the 13 month calendar.

Life More Complex
"Modern life is more complex in the aggregate than that of any previous age," the committee found as one factor warranting a change. "It demands more mental activity from every individual. Its vast industrial organization and the many new utilities and luxuries it produces, require that every individual think about many more things than his forebears did and make a great many more kinds of motions. The industrial process too, are engaged in such a multitude of efforts to satisfy a constantly increasing number of human wants that they are themselves constantly growing more complex. Their managers are continually seeking methods to control and simplify them."

"Both in individual life and among all the processes of civilization, simplification of the calendar would afford relief from unnecessary effort and thereby contribute to making our lives easier and happier. It would afford more time for leisure and recreation and facilitate the conduct of all human affairs."

"forced" to assail by the very nature of the case.

"I would like to say peace to her ashes," said Seyfert, "but I cannot do it with the life of a man at stake. I am forced to throw aside the mantle of charity and call your attention to the facts."

"She has to be ridiculed, to be pictured as she was. She was the type that was quiet but sneaky."

Seyfert told the jury that if Snook had not killed Miss Hix, she would have slain Mrs. Snook and her baby.

"She warned Dr. Snook she would do it," he asserted. Describing Miss Hix's "life of sin" Seyfert declared that "the flames of passion licked up her soul and body."

Pounding a table, he assailed Prosecutor John J. Chester, Jr., as "an octopus, a sea devil with nine arms." He classed the police who helped Chester get the confession from Snook as "wolves."

"They are trying to send Dr. Snook to the chair on trumped-up testimony," Seyfert shouted.

Was Dominating
Seyfert portrayed Snook as a man who was led on by a woman, much younger than himself, who finally "dominated" him.

Snook "had to kill" Miss Hix, Seyfert told the jury. He related the events that transpired at the rifle range the night of the crime and of her "attack" upon Snook in the parked car.

"He was really afraid of her—afraid she'd kill him," said Seyfert. "She was a strong, athletic girl, weighing 145 pounds. She was a good shot, too. She could shoot 25 bullets out of 50 at a distance of 60 feet. And when she reached for her handbag during their quarrel he thought she was after the pistol to kill him as she threatened to do."

"Something must have snapped in Snook's brain after he hit her the first time. The next thing he knew he was sitting on the running board, his head in his hands."

Seyfert pictured Theora as a "two-man woman, a man for the afternoon and another for the evening."

Seyfert concluded by telling the jury he felt sure they "would give this defendant a fair and square deal."

lows: $5 to the oldest man, resident of Lawrence county or former resident, in attendance; $5 for the oldest woman with the same qualifications; ten dollars to the couple residing in Lawrence county and married the longest of any of the couples in attendance; and $5 for the person coming from the longest distance to be present.

The committee in charge this year consists of Harvey E. Megoun, chairman; Ralph M. Campbell, vice-chairman; William T. Butz, secretary and treasurer; Howard Morrison, Scott Paisley, Robert H. Whaley, Joseph Hannon and William E. Browne.

Despite the slight drizzle of rain early this morning the park was the gathering place of many Old-Timers at noon and it is expected that late this afternoon there will be a large crowd as it is one day when the promoters of the county set aside all cares and journey to "Big Run Falls" as Cascade Park formerly was known to once again hold a pleasant reunion.

RENT, TWO CENTS A YEAR UNPAID

An estate manager in Scotland has a problem in connection with a "peppercorn rent," a custom dating from the Middle Ages, of paying a small amount, usually a pound of peppercorn or the equivalent, to keep alive the title of an estate. One tenant paid two cents a year rent, it costing the agent three cents in postage to notify him that rent day had arrived. Last year the tenant failed to pay, and recently died two cents in arrears.

Two American Women Suffer Hardships At Hands Of Russians

Mrs. Abbott InGalls, And Miss Mary Van Rensselaer, Tell Wierd Tales Of Suffering

Subjected To Arrest In Caucasus Mountains By Soviets, Believed Spies

(International News Service) MOSCOW, Aug. 14.—Miss Mary Van Rensselaer Cogswell, a niece of J. P. Morgan, and Mrs. Abbot S. InGalls, two venturesome American women, are in Moscow recuperating from the hardships of a trip through the isolated Caucasus country during which they were arrested as "British spies" and held two hours in a Soviet dungeon.

While touring Soviet Russia Miss Cogswell and Mrs. InGalls deserted the main body of American tourists to make a side trip through the Caucasus Mountains to see some of the wild country off the beaten trail. They came back to Moscow with a tale of adventure and hardship as vivid as an explorer's travelogue.

They left their American companions at Tiflis traveling over a mountain trail nearly 10,000 feet high on horseback. The first night they spent in a little school house. The next night they slept in a peasant's hut.

Arrested As Spies

When they reached Kutais they were arrested by the Gpu (official police) on suspicion of being British spies because they took some photographs without an official permit. Finally after being looked up in a dungeon for two hours they were convinced the secret police they were Americans.

Upon their release they set their faces towards Moscow.

To make matters worse a third stole Miss Cogswell's purse on the train, containing their combined "fortune" of $450. The loss of the money was bad enough, but the thief got away, also with the passports. In addition the women lost their jewelry.

The women narrowly escaped arrest a second time when they asked Red army generals to bring them a glass of tea. As Miss Cogswell explained they did not know he was a general "because he wore nothing but trousers."

Upon their arrival here the women were both "broke" but friends came to their rescue and bought them a good meal, the first they had had in many days.

Miss Cogswell said she was afraid she could not get out of Russia without a passport, but has cabled to the State Department in Washington for assistance and advice.

Diplomatic relations do not exist between the two countries.

Arless Believer In Future Of Talkies

(International News Service) CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—George Arless, moving picture star, believes that talkies in their present form are not art and will have to improve, he said on a visit here.

"The talkies will have to improve," Arless answered in response to a query. "In their present form they are not art and the public will soon demand an improvement—a change. They can't go back for the same reason that a person once enjoying an automobile never goes back to a horse and buggy. I believe that they will become art and at the same time in the future the most popular form of entertainment."

Japanese Woman Is Forbidden Passage On Graf Zeppelin

Japanese Men Passengers Refuse To Make Trip If Woman Is Granted Berth

Dr. Eckener Cancels Passage Of Pretty Young Japanese Newspaper-woman

(International News Service) FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Aug. 14.—The "feminine question" caused a flurry today in the preparations for the departure of the Graf on the continuation of its globe girdling flight and was settled in a way that brought tears to Miss Keneko Kitamura, a tiny, doll-like Japanese girl who wished to make the voyage as a newspaper reporter.

Miss Kitamura, who is understood to have been backed by powerful Japanese interests, booked passage on the Graf to Tokyo and paid for her ticket. When the other Japanese passengers—all men—learned that Miss Kitamura was to go they threatened to withdraw on the ground that "a Japanese woman's participation in the flight would make a bad impression in Japan."

Passage Cancelled
Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf, was in a quandary. Later he announced that, as the Japanese passengers' protest had been sustained by Japanese embassy in Berlin, Miss Kitamura's passage was cancelled.

Miss Kitamura was found by the International News Service correspondent weeping in a corner of the lobby of the Kuragarten hotel.

"Oh, it is dreadful," she exclaimed. "Now I shall have to return by boat which will take a month. I had my heart set upon making the flight."

Weather Improves
She was a sorrowful spectacle as she dabbed at her eyes with a diminutive handkerchief.

Dr. Eckener instructed the passengers to have their baggage ready by 5 o'clock this afternoon. He said he expects the Graf to leave between 4 and 5 o'clock tomorrow morning. A bus will leave the Kuragarten hotel with the passengers at 5:30.

Weather conditions now seem excellent along the entire route and it looks as though we shall have a fine trip," Dr. Eckener told International News Service.

Famous Flying Colonel Calls
Cleveland Newspaper And Reporter Gets “Fussed”

(International News Service)
CLEVELAND, Aug. 14.—The staff of a Cleveland newspaper was still in a state of incredulity today—especially one reporter—when a famous flyer, who with his wife gave Cleveland a surprise visit yesterday, telephoned the newspaper office and laid himself open to a telephone interview. The call from Colonel Lindbergh came after a reporter had made several unsuccessful attempts to gain an audience with the flyer at the home of Mrs. Charles L. Cutler, grandmother of Mrs. Lindbergh. The reporter, befuddled and dazed upon being informed that Colonel Lindbergh was on the wire, “came to” quickly enough to stutter out a few questions. “W-w-well, w-w-would you mind telling us the purpose of your visit?” Lindbergh answered agreeably that it was just a visit to Mrs. Lindbergh’s grandmother and aunt. After the interview, the reporter, suddenly thinking that the call may have been a hoax, called back to the Cutler home and asked “if it really was” the colonel who had called. Lindbergh, somewhat amusedly, assured the reporter that the call was not a fake.

Plan Region Tour Of Poultry Farms

Local Poultrymen May Go On Lengthy Tour Of Poultry Farms In District

According to the statement of H. R. McCulloch, county agent, the western Pennsylvania poultry tour is scheduled to start September 18. There will also be a tour for Eastern poultrymen. The county agent is making plans to attend and those Lawrence county poultrymen who wish to make the trip should get in touch with him at once for particulars. This tour for poultrymen in the western part of the state and for any others who are interested will assemble at Franklin the morning of September 18, at 8:30 at the park near the court house. The tour will pass through Barkleyville and Clintonville. Those who come from the south and west can join the tour at Barkleyville at 9:30 at the point where route 8 intersects 108. McCoy Bros. poultry farm, Embleton, will be visited first. Here will be found 6,000 Leghorns. Battery brooder, wire floors and range houses are used on this farm. There is an incubator capacity of 13,000 eggs. The party will then continue thru Parkers Landing to East Brady where a brief stop will be made to view the scenic Narrows. Those who care to may join the tour at the east of the Allegheny river bridge at Kittanning at 2:30. The route will lead through Leechburg and Apollo to Saltsburg in Westmoreland county, where the farm of William Heimberger & Son will be seen. The first night will be spent in Greensburg. Leaving Greensburg at 7:30 Tuesday morning, September 17, the tour will travel eastward over the Lincoln road to Jennerstown. The first stop will be made at Robert Lohr’s farm. This is one of the largest turkey farms east of the Mississippi river. Twenty-five hundred poulters were started this year in a long, continuous type of brooder house. Four varieties of turkeys will be seen. The last farm visit will be made to the farm of J. W. Parks, Altoona, breeder of the Parks strain of Barred Plymouth Rocks. Battery brooders and wire floors are used for brooding chicks. The eastern and western tours will meet at State College Tuesday afternoon, September 17, in time for the poultrymen’s banquet which will be held at 6:30. Following this will be the meeting of the State Poultry and Baby Chick associations. An educational program has been planned at the college Wednesday, September 18. Professor J. E. Rice of Cornell university will deliver two inspiring addresses. A trip over the poultry farm will give everyone an opportunity to see the new brooder house, 20 feet long. It must be embarrassing to a bride marching solemnly up the aisle to the strains of Lohengrin to spy a couple of her catty friends who have the low-down and grin. Conscience may be a good guide, but it is entirely too hard-boiled to combine the qualities of philosopher and friends.

Make-Up for Titian

After the Titian-haired woman has selected her clothes, she should look to her make-up, thinks M. Leiong, dressmaker-extraordinary. She should avoid too vivid rouge and lipstick, studying her natural complexion and the color of her hair. A lovely Leiong model is pictured, an evening gown in white chiffon, embellished in strass.

Weekly Health Talk

“With a general ban against advertisements of a special character, large advertising spaces are now being occupied with eloquent and appealing assertions of the power of certain mail order remedies alleged to cure other maladies,” said Dr. Theodore B. Appel, secretary of Health, today. “It is indeed quite surprising how many fairly intelligent people will be taken in by these glowing literary ‘spreads’, and consequently send their hard earned money to the quacks and unethical business men who thus gull the public. “If one is merely sufficiently literate to read an advertisement, and in addition lives in a highly remote locality, there may be some excuse for him to become the prey of these senseless people, but it is indeed hard to understand why thousands of men and women who pride themselves upon their intelligence and education succumb to these high-powered statements. “In the first place, it is unreasonable for anyone to imagine that he can be effectively treated for disease by mail. For example, consider rheumatism. ‘Rheumatism’ as generally known is not always a definite disease but often a complex of symptoms due to many and varied causes, often obscure. To conclude therefore that postage stamp pills, often containing little else of service than a laxative, will be able to cure this painful disease is a woefully misplaced trust. “The sections in Pennsylvania that cannot be served with proper medical attention are exceedingly few, if in fact they exist at all. And in most localities physicians and even hospital and laboratory facilities are usually available. “Daily and self-treatment should not be contemplated for a moment with any disease. And that is what the use of mail order medicines really amounts to. Be examined by a reputable practitioner and follow the directions based upon his diagnosis. “Spend money foolishly on many other things if you please to do so, but discount by 100 per cent any enthusiasm that might be engendered by reading the ‘com-on’ of the mail-order-cure advertisers. Save your postage stamps and see your doctor!”

A most enjoyable time was spent last evening by the delegates to the convention of the American Order of True Ivoryites and local members and friends at the First Congregational church on East Reynolds street. The ladies of Martha Lodge had prepared a fine program of song and speech and to top it off, a playlet was presented entitled, “Aunt Matilda’s Birthday.” Those participating in the program were members of Martha Lodge and were as follows: Mrs. Carl Turner, Mrs. Charles Henry, Mrs. Thomas Sullivan, Mrs. Sol Davies, Mrs. John Coughlin, Mrs. Dave Matthews, Mrs. Will E. Youthful Mountaineer Presents Big Raccoon To President Hoover

Raw Mountain Youngster
Rides Horse Down Wild
Trail To Present
Gift

Meets President Hoover, Colonel Lindbergh, And
Other National Notables

By GEORGE E. BURNO
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—A story involving President Hoover and an unexpected gift on the occasion of his 55th birthday, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his ability to fly and an 11-year-old mountain kid whose pappy vowed he'd climb a hickory tree if Hoover was elected, was brought back to Washington today from the President's fishing retreat near the headwaters of the Rapidan river.

The setting is the mountain in the Blue Ridge Range upon which the President has located his now-famous week-end fishing camp, the date was last Sunday, the day following Mr. Hoover's 55th birthday.

Mrs. Hoover and most of the women guests at camp were returning from a horseback ride. Cutting into the trail leading to camp they came upon an 11-year-old product of the mountains, himself astride a horse. His face was gleaming from what probably was an unaccustomed scrubbing. He wore his best Sunday overalls. Under his arm was tucked a live raccoon.

Very Unabashed
"Young man," said Mrs. Hoover, smiling in her mount with mock severity, "Why aren't you in Sunday school?"

The young mountaineer was entirely unabashed.
"I used to go to Sunday school," he replied amiably, "but Maw told me to take this here 'coon down to the President for his birthday."

This, of course, interested the first lady, and she took the lad in tow. As they rode toward the camp it was developed he and his family lived above the Hoover establishment, that he personally had snared the raccoon and placed it in a box with a wire screen and fattened it up, and that he intended to remain until he personally had proffered his gift to the chief executive.

The camp was reached and the young man was given a group introduction to such notables as the President, Col. Lindbergh, Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, and Surgeon General Cummings. Unfortunately, the lad didn't volunteer his name in return and he must, perforce, remain anonymous.

Raccoon Taken In
The raccoon was tendered and received with dignity.
Then the kid offered to sing a song. The camp party surrounded him and, in high piping voice, he rendered one of those inimitable mountain songs, receiving the applause stoically.

Suddenly he turned around and observed:
"My pappy said if you was elected he'd climb a hickory tree," the youngster advised the president, and before the laugh had subsided he inquired of a secret service operative if he "was a Hoover man?"

Become Chummy
Mr. Hoover and the young mountaineer became quite chummy. They looked over the rotogravure section of the Sunday papers together and the president made his young guest a present of a number of puzzles he had been given jokingly the night before at the birthday party.

Mrs. Hoover thought the lad might be hungry, but his "Maw" evidently had schooled him against such an eventuality, for he doggedly insisted he "et dinner." After much persuasion, however, he was turned over to Borras, the Hoover valet, and sent in search of a piece of birthday cake.

Lad Puts Good One
"Do you know Lindy?" asked Borras by way of making conversation. "Lindbergh?" replied the kid, and the subject dropped temporarily. The cake was being out and wrapped. Suddenly the boy asked:

"Did you ever fly an airplane?"
"Yes," Borras told him.
The lad thought a minute.
"Well, did Lindy?"

That capped the climax, as it were. He was last seen riding contentedly up the mountainside with a piece of presidential birthday cake under his arm.

The raccoon was left to the tender mercies of Allan Hoover, younger son of the president.

A LITTLE SUGAR— LOTS OF FLAVOR

How a Dash of Sweetness Can
Add to the Joy of Eating

Everyone is interested in improving cookery. Women like to have their meals appreciated. Men like to enjoy foods, so that eating becomes a pleasure. Children fight against bland and tasteless meals. Unappetizing foods encourage malnutrition among children.

This points out the rightful place of sugar in the diet. Sugar is the flavor supreme developed by nature to make eating a pleasure. The latest thing in cookery is an old secret rediscovered. Add a dash of sugar to vegetables while they are cooking (preferably in little water). The sugar works wonders in picking up the flavors, freshness and colors of vegetable foods.

Try this Eggplant en Casserole. Pare a large eggplant. Cut it in thick slices. Then in cubes. Cook in just enough boiling water to cover. Drain well when finished. Cut a small onion in slices. Cook until tender in 1 tablespoon of butter. Add the eggplant, 1 cup of tomatoes (more if mixture seems too dry), ½ cup of water, 1 teaspoon of sugar, ½ teaspoon of salt, ¼ teaspoon of pepper. Cover and simmer slowly in moderate oven half an hour.

Try a dash of sugar in cooking peas, lima beans, string beans, corn, carrots, beets, parsnips, sweet potatoes, squash, onions and tomatoes. For taste, for enjoyment, for making a varied diet enjoyable, use a dash of sugar. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

Officers Hunting Constables Attackers

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Pa., Aug. 14.—Time and money will not be considered by the officials of this county in bringing to justice the two men responsible for the attack on Constable James Cullinan of Hempfield township Sunday, when he stopped them on the Fredonia road near Greenville to make a search for liquor.

The fact that the gun in the hands of Jerome Johnson of Dawson failed to explode is all that saved the life of the constable. County officials are highly indignant at the mistreatment of Cullinan, who was beaten about the head by a car crank. The pair are said to have left with two women. There were three men in the car, two of them being known, Donley Harper of Greenville being the other of the known pair, while the police say they are certain of the third.

They are wanted for an assault with intent to kill and it ought will be arranged on that charge, as well as the liquor charges growing out of the affair. County Detective Sam Leyshock is very optimistic as to the outcome of the affair. Pictures and descriptions of the pair are being broadcasted. Leyshock will be given all the backing he needs to capture them.

Haunted House To Be Sold In West

BOULDER, Colo., Aug. 14.—Efforts are being made by business representatives of Mrs. John J. Harbeck, now of New York City, to sell her Boulder home valued at $70,000, and known for many years as the "haunted house of Euclid street" and "the house of tradition."

Twenty-two years ago, Mrs. Harbeck and her husband entered into a strange agreement that their home would not be sold until their three canine pets, who had died, had been buried 22 years. The agreement has been kept, but in the meantime, the husband has died.

During the years the Harbecks lived in New York City, their home was vacant. Recent lights seen within the windows of the mansion, have revived the haunted house legend, and "The Story of the Three Dogs."

Secretary Stimson Is Back At Work

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Secretary of State Stimson was at his desk Tuesday for the first time in ten days after a rest in the mountains. When Stimson decided he needed a rest he asked newspapermen to refrain from inquiring where he was going, and his mountain retreat—he did disclose that much—remains a secret.

McKay Reminisces Of Days Beyond Recall

St. Cloud, Florida, Aug. 9.

To The News:
I have received an invitation to attend the 23rd annual picnic of the old timers, the card was sent to me by Mrs. Maude Whitney Hamilton, whom I have known for many years. I can't say just how long but I do know we both went to the old Sheep Hill school and Sabbath school at the same time. She was in the primer class when I was in the fourth reader. I used to think she was the brightest little girl in the school, so in getting this card telling of the old timers picnic, it brings to my mind a great many of the old landmarks, such as the old time kiln on Moravia street just above the big run, where the canal went through.

I am also reminded of the little iron cars hauling the large chunks of cinder from the Rosena furnace and piling them where Gardner avenue now is or was a short time ago, then we think of Elias Tong's store on Moravia street. Just across the street was the store of John Cripps. These were the nearest stores we had when living out on Sheep Hill in my boyhood days.

Then I think of the old fifth ward fighting apparatus, a contrivance with handles along both sides where the boys would get hold of these handles and work them up and down like the old fashioned hand crank. This was the pump, it would draw the water in at one end and force it out at the other.

Then Sam Perry's store on Long avenue, near the intersection of Mill street where we used to go to buy our marbles and fishhooks as we would get one or two more for a penny than other place. How we remember the Aiken book store on Washington street where we had to get all our school books, and the W. S. Bell shoe store where our dad would take us to get us a pair of leather boots with copper toes and blue tops. Oh, how proud we were then.

I remember Dr. McKinley's drug store where once in a long time we would get a drink of soda water, and R. W. Allens tobacco store with the Indian out in front and express office in the rear, and Captain Cooper's clothing store where our first overcoat was bought, and R. W. Clendennine where our mothers would buy the goods to make our Chevrolet waist band jeans pants, as well as the cloth for our Sunday duds. The S. M. Young grocery store where it was not clerking, it was working, washing the crockery and china ware which they had by the car load, and cleaning up the floor where the molasses would run from the old wooden barrel when someone would not close the spigot tight.

Then we would go over to the Hill Pottery to get a load of jugs and crocks.
Those were the good old times and many hundreds of other places I recall. The old pump around on Croton avenue, along side the Robinson Bakery where thousands of people quenched their thirst. These all came back so clear to me when I received the notice of the Old Timers picnic.

How I wish I could be there, as I feel I am an old timer and there are so many more that are in my class that no doubt will be there. We shall have to wait for another time, but we hope and pray that the weatherman will favor you with good weather and all will have a swell time.

Courteous Traffic Officers Good Ad Says Motor Head

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 13.—A traffic squad comprised of alert and courteous officers is one of the best advertisements any municipality can have, S. Edward Gable, president of the Pennsylvania Motor federation, said today in discussing the importance of friendly relations between motorists and those who control traffic.

"When one stops to consider that millions of tourists come into Pennsylvania each year and that each community gets a goodly share of these, either passing through or stopping overnight, he gets an idea of the good will merits of a courteous welcome to the traveler, to say nothing of its advertising value," Mr. Gable stated.

"Most tourists judge a town or city by the traffic men with whom they come in contact and carry these impressions back home. If the police are courteous, the impression is good; if discourteous, the visitor gets an unfavorable idea of the city or town. Thus it behooves not only the officers themselves, but the officials of the municipality to see to it that the tourists get courteous treatment."

The Federation head referred to a card given out by police in a certain city to visiting motorists who, through unfamiliarity with local regulations, happen to violate a minor law. It reads like this: "We welcome you to our motor regulations by there is a space to be filled in by the officer. I trust that you will guard against a repetition of this offense, but should you be shown any discourtesy by an officer of the law for this violation I'll be grateful if you will report direct to me."

It is signed by the mayor. "That little card and the spirit back of it means more to the city than all the fines collected from visitors for minor traffic rule infractions," said Mr. Gable. "Of course it isn't easy to ascertain, unless the license happens to be from another state, whether or not the car belongs to a visitor, but that is left to the individual officer."

There are two sides to the situation, however, the head of the motorist organization pointed out. "Drivers must be careful not to be discourteous to the officer," he warned. "All too often it happens that a brusque remark by a motorist accosted for some minor infraction of regulations brings a summons to court which had the response of the driver been courteous, would have been passed by the officer merely with a warning."

Oil Producers Aid Stream Protection

HARRISBURG, Aug. 14.—As a result of conferences between representatives of the bureau of engineering and the State Health Department and leaders of the oil industry the National Petroleum Association has appointed a committee of seven executives to negotiate an agreement with the Sanitary Water Board relative to the protection of streams against pollution from oil refineries.

American Hunters Invading Scotland

(International News Service) LONDON, Aug. 14.—The leasing of deer forests and grouse moors in Scotland to Americans is proceeding on a higher scale this year than ever before. Exorbitant prices are being obtained for sporting sanctuaries which a couple of generations ago could have been bought outright for next to nothing.

In some cases as much as $35,000 has been obtained for deer shooting forests for just one season.

Clarence Mackay, the cable magnate, has sub-let Glenfries Moor for the season and will have as a neighbor H. L. Pratt, the American oil magnate, who has leased the well-stocked moors of Castle Grant.

C. W. Ogden, of New York, has leased the famous deer forest of Auchmagair, in Inverness-shire; and a Mr. Clark, described as a wealthy American from the same city, will shoot over the Murthly Castle moors.

Five officers and 115 enlisted men of the army engineers corps will accompany Sultan to the Latin-American republic. Later 20 officers and 300 men will augment his forces, he said.

Tells Result Of May Health Drive

HARRISBURG, August 14.—Final tabulations were released today on the work supervised by the Pennsylvania State Health Department relative to the May Week health activities. This report was submitted to the Secretary of Health by Dr. Mary Riggs Noble, State chairman for this work and chief of the pre-school section of the bureau of child health. Community programs were successfully developed in 375 places. Infants and pre-school children were examined to the number of 15,957. Four hundred and fifty-four pre-school clinics were held which were entirely distinct from the permanent child health centers in the Commonwealth. During the month, 56,935 children were immunized against diphtheria. 28,833 young people were weighed and measured, dental cleanings amounted to 10,491, typhoid serum was given to 16 children, while 243 were vaccinated against smallpox. To date, 21,126 physical defects which were discovered at that time have been corrected.

Headquarters for the convention will be established at the Statler hotel, where the unit meetings will be conducted.

By GROVE PATTERSON

YOUR EPITAPH

Henry Arthur Jones, famous English playwright, wrote his own epitaph and left it to be carved upon the stone. He selected this: "Then I have said I have labored in vain, yet surely my judgment is with the Lord and my work with my God."

It might be a worthy pastime to practice up a bit on your own epitaph. What would you like to have written on your monument? Indeed what COULD you have written on it, now, that would be true?

ANOTHER EPITAPH

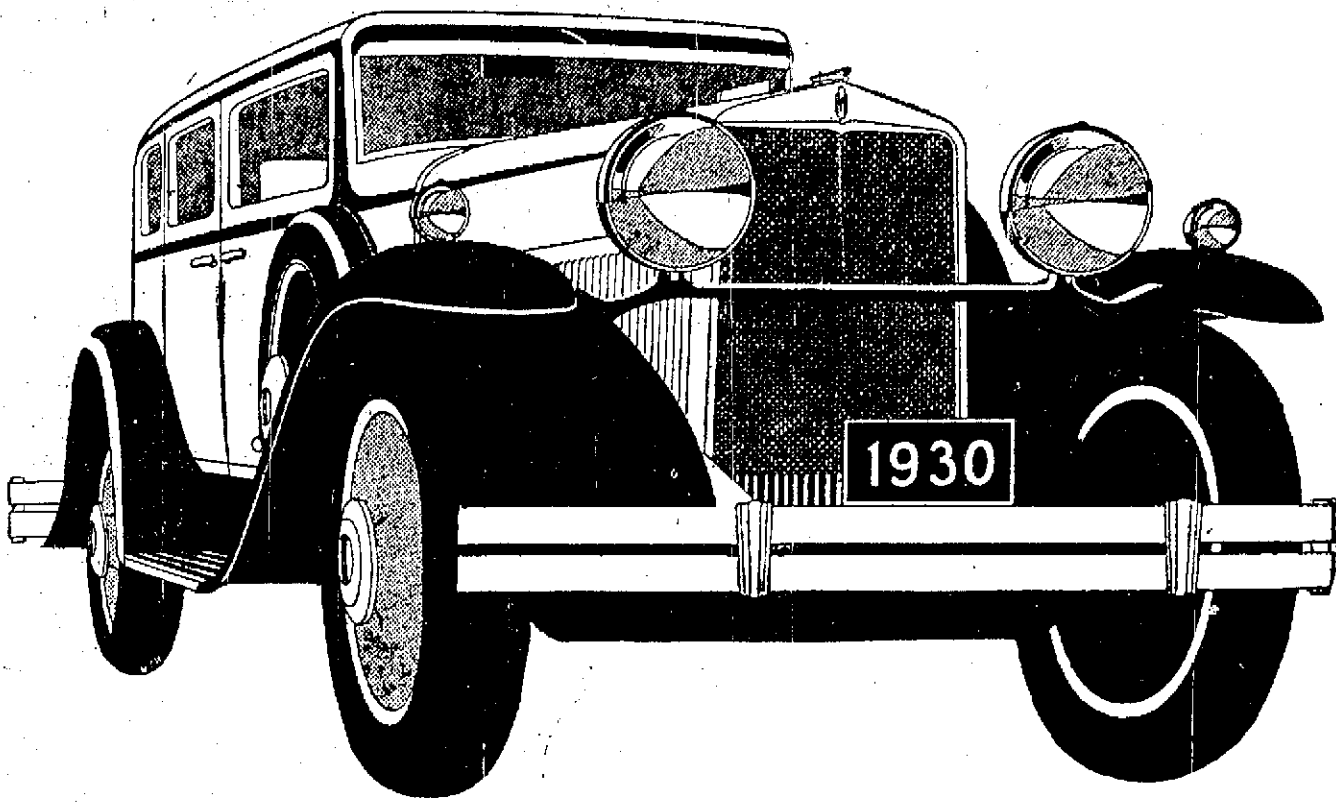

Wandering through a very old graveyard, the writer of this column pushed aside the vines on the fragment of a tombstone and read the line that had been put there, over the grave of a wife, by her husband. The line was short, simple, somehow very touching. It gave one the feeling that the man had summed up everything and, being a silent man, had not been flowery in his words. Yet one had the feeling, too, that he had expressed himself rather fully. The one short line read: "She was good."

INTERESTING

The writer, visiting the Pilgrim monument at the far end of Cape Cod, talked with the caretaker. Half way up the stairs inside the monument the caretaker stopped and looked out of the window—long and thoughtfully toward some far hills, and a burying ground at the side of the road. His wife had been taken there to rest a year before. He mentioned her.

"You know," he said, "she was the

BAD PREPARATION
A man may make what he thinks is smart preparation and yet do himself a great disservice. Some kinds of preparation may be very bad for mind and body. An Oklahoma traveling salesman just before going to a hospital for an operation, ordered his coffin from the undertaker. Five days later he needed it. He went into the hospital in the wrong frame of mind. He handicapped himself by his preparation.

Second Tests Aid New Auto Drivers

HARRISBURG, Aug. 14.—Of 176,062 applicants for drivers' licenses examined by the State Highway Patrol during the first seven months of 1929, 45,986 were reported to Supt. Wilson C. Price at Harrisburg as having failed.

"At first glance," said Captain Price "it would seem like this is an extraordinarily miserable showing, but as a matter of fact, only three per cent of the applicants for the driving privilege are ultimately unable to meet the requirements. Our reports show that 66 per cent of the original failures are caused by inability to handle the motor car, and 33 per cent by ignorance of the motor laws."

During the first seven months of the year, the patrol found bad headlamps on 29,740 cars, license plates were wrongly placed on 18,930 vehicles, and in 5,379 cases brakes were faulty.

Charles Henry Young Announces For Place As City Councilman

CHARLES HENRY YOUNG

Charles H. Young announces today as candidate for City Council.

A well known railroad man of Second Ward, he makes the following statement to the Republican voters.
I have always voted the Republican ticket. I am a property owner and have been for 28 years and have always voted since I was 21 years of age.

I worked as a glass worker having worked in both the factories here, the Hooton and Knox factories until they were abandoned. I was working at the Wire Nail Mill and left a good job at that plant when I went to serve my country in the Spanish-American War, a volunteer and saw active service in Ponce, Porto Rico.

I later married and have a large family to support. I am a member of the First M. E. church, Maccabee
Lodge and the United Spanish War
Veterans and now am a Post Commander, having been commander of the Post in the year 1924. During that year the Ladies Auxiliary was organized.

I have worked for the railroad company with whom I am now employed as a mechanic, continuously for 27 years and am a member of the Railroad Veterans Association for seven years.

I believe my long residence here makes me pretty well acquainted with the city and my army and railroad experience have been true to my country and honest and faithful to my employer, and I served in these capacities to the entire satisfaction of all concerned.

My policy if elected to the office of City Council will be to conduct the office intelligently, honestly and with consideration for all.

I will now leave my case in the hands of the voters and please don't forget the date, September 17th and vote right.

Most sincerely and respectfully,
Thank you,
CHARLES HENRY YOUNG.

Local Men Witness Terrible Accident

Jack Crowl and Stanley Whieldon, this city, yesterday afternoon were witnesses and gave assistance when a bad automobile accident occurred on the new highway which courses between Conestoga Lake and Erie. The crash occurred between the lake and Springboro and in talking of the crash today they believe that an entire family of five were wiped out. Owing to the critical condition of all excepting the father who was killed instantly, no names were secured.

According to Crowl a truck of an Erie firm was operating down a hill and a Buick, Ohio license was going up the hill. The truck, in some manner got on the wrong side of the road and "climbed over" the Buick.

The father was dead when Crowl and Whieldon rushed to the wreck.
They extricated the man's wife, daughter and son. All were cut fearfully and were unconscious. They were rushed to nearby towns where physicians could give them treatment.

Crowl stated today that he does not see how any of them could live and believes that they would not be able to recover judging from their injuries.
The driver of the truck had an artery in an arm cut and Crowl and Whieldon put a tourniquet around his arm which stopped the flow of blood.

FAMOUS FEMININE FLYERS AGAIN VIE FOR FAME

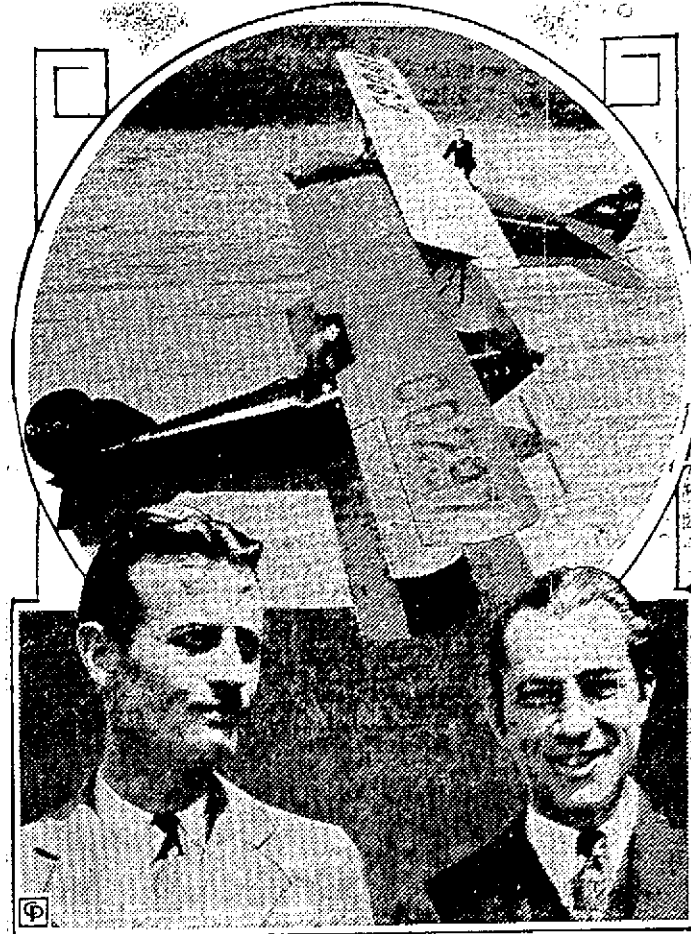

When the first women's air derby from Santa Monica to Cleveland gets under way, Ruth Elder will again find herself pitted against Amelia Earhart for flying honors. Two years ago they were rivals when both sought to conquer the Atlantic. Miss Earhart's plane "Friendship" made the hop successfully, however, Miss Elder's ship sank near the Azores. This time there will be no men to take the controls—it will be woman against woman for the $25,000 purse. Lady Mary Heath will represent England and Miss Marvel Crosson will help uphold the California honor.

STILL A STAR AFTER 20 YEARS IN BIG TIME TENNIS

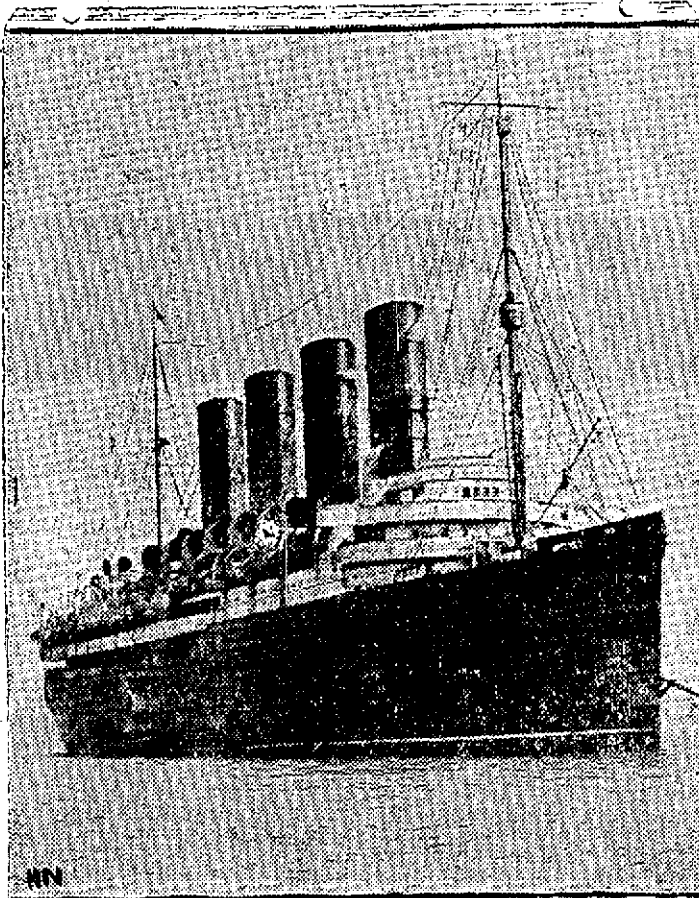

Mrs. George W. Wightman, who became national tennis champion 20 years ago as Miss Hazel Hotchkiss, is still a brilliant player and participant in international tennis. She captained the American Wightman Cup team this year.

PLAN TO CRASH HEAD-ON IN AIR

Deliberately planning to crash their planes head-on while flying 5,000 feet in the air, Dick Grace and Philip Mohun are busy in Los Angeles planning the most hazardous feat yet attempted in aviation. Grace, a movie stunt actor, and Mohun, soldier of fortune, were offered $5,000 by a movie company to try the stunt. As soon as they complete practice flights and the necessary weakening of parts of their ships, and can get the department of commerce sanction, they will go to Mineola, N. Y., and attempt their spectacular feat. Above, Mohun, near camera, and Grace show how they expect to stage the stunt. Below, Mohun, left, and Grace.

Old Liner Tries Hard for Record

Flying through the waves of the broad Atlantic the 21-year-old Mauretania logged more miles per day than she had ever made before. Thoroughly overhauled, at cost of $500,000 she has more speed than when she carried the blue flag, symbolizing the speed record for the Atlantic crossing, recently taken away by the new German liner "Bremer."

Frank Ferrar, left, discovered two men running away from a burning car on the Jersey meadows in which was later disclosed the charred body of a youth believed to be the victim of underworld vengeance. County Detective Gerien is seen at right, examining two gasoline cans that were found in the car. At top is shown all that remained of victim—a piece of shirt, belt buckle and two tear gas cartridges.

Movie War Victim

After being beaten considerably, Harry Deck, 30-year-old actor, was rescued by other actors from six attackers in Los Angeles. Police believe he was set upon when he refused to join in a movement to institute a "closed shop" in movieland.

"Mercy" Slayer

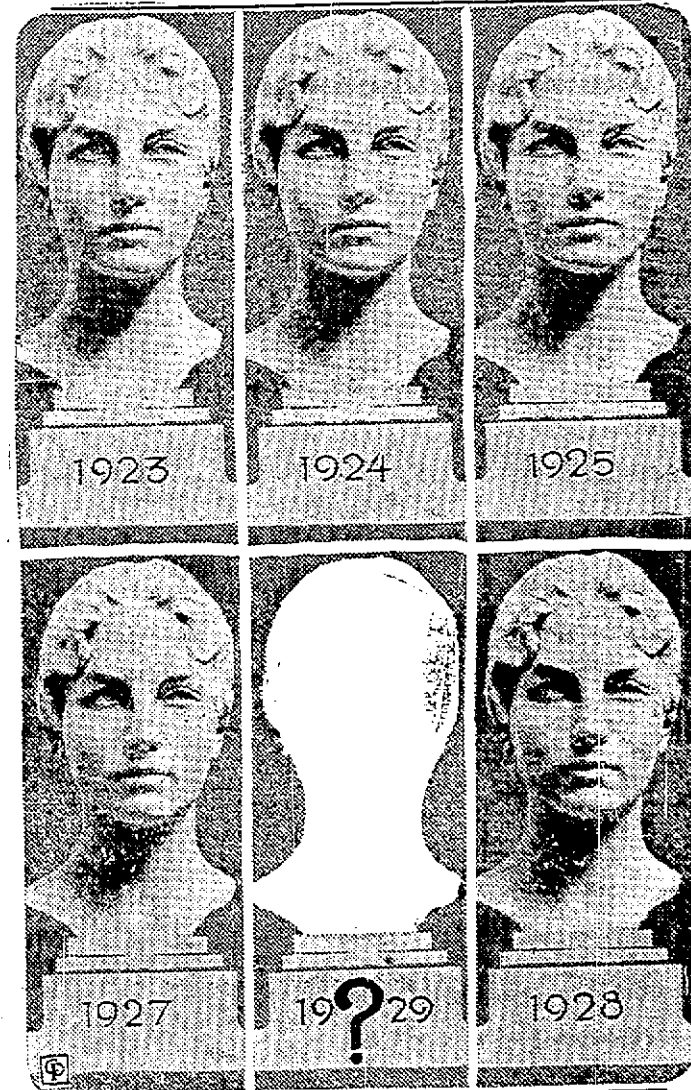

For the "mercy slaying" of his wife, Fred Erb, 75, of Lawrence, Kas., has been sentenced to life imprisonment. After he fired a bullet into his 75-year-old wife's brain he attempted to kill himself but the gun jammed. She was bedridden for seven years.

Beats Jules Verne

With the aid of the Graf Zeppelin and a flock of planes, Richard J. He flew from London to Friedrichshafen, caught the Zeppelin for America, then took plane and train across the continent.

Scouts Enjoying Life Despite Bad Weather

In an interesting letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Stevenson of 114 Sheridan avenue, Jack Stevenson one of the Lawrence County Boy Scouts who is now touring the continent with the other scouts, writes some of his experiences. His letter follows:

Birkenhead, England.
July 31st, 1929.

Dear Folks:—
I am writing on Cunard stationery although we are in camp. We are having a fine time here. I'm not writing very often because we are very busy. The letters I wrote before are there I suppose.

The voyage over was wonderful. I gained, I think. I made many friends and as we landed we had many good-byes. Just before we landed, someone stole my pen out of my room. I hunted a lot but couldn't find it, so unless my bedroom steward sends it to me I will be without it.

As we were getting off the ship, the Samaria raised the U. S. flag above the British on the mast and tooted all whistles. We asked if anyone had seen anything like it before from the sailors but none had. We think it was wonderful.

We came straight to our camp and cooked our meals because the Samaria got here early, the fastest time she has ever made. The engine room of it was wonderful.

Don't let them kid you on the average here, things are not any cheaper here. We went to Liverpool twice from camp. You have to go from here to the bus station, get to Birkenhead, take a ferry to Liverpool across the Mersey. We went to a movie there yesterday. Now we won't be able to go because camp has begun.

My French is O. K. but they must speak slow to me. I have many souvenirs and so far the camp is easy but it will be harder.

Russia is represented among the countries of the world. It has 8 patriotic ones. This camp is mammoth. I can't begin to tell you how wonderful it is. There are about 55,000 here, because some English scouts, not expected came.

Weather here is terrible; rainy one hour and sunshine the next, etc.

However it is we have fun. We have had campfires every night but not tonight. I don't take much time on my letters, as you can see.

Tonight I met a fine Swedish scout called Sten Lindberg and many others. We all feel fine but I suspect three of four big kids of being home-sick. I'm not. Today every group in camp had a parade before the Duke of Connaught and Prince but I didn't see the Prince.

I saw more flags than ever before. Thousands of them. Spots did Highland dancing and the display was wonderful.

I know English money like a shark now. Our food is good and we get all we want.

Say, don't forget to save all newspaper articles about us, please.

We have fun talking to the German scouts.

The Indian scouts have the best camp. They spent at least a thousand on it. Our camp is sub-camp Troop 19. Scoutmaster Wright, Mr. Herbert is a cooperating officer like myself, only of course he is higher.

We go to bed at 10:15 and rise at 7:30. We have U. S. Army outdoor stoves to cook on and U. S. Army tents. Also four army blankets. The Army donated wood for tables and we built them including the seats.

The program has hardly started yet so I'll have a lot of news some time again. Don't forget to write to the S. S. California.

Oh, yes. Did you get the cable and translate it? I would have sent more but you know how much it costs—around two dollars, huh. Now I am going down to see a friend called Jack Lomber.

I forgot to tell you I had a slight infection on my right thumb. Doc Cole opened it today and it is O. K. now.

JACK.

Believe Convict Murdered Youth

(International News Service)
MILFORD, Conn., Aug. 14.—An ex-convict was sought Tuesday as the fiend who slew three-year-old Albert Mikenas.

The tot's mangled body was found in a lonely swamp near here Monday after he had been missing two weeks.

Police refuse to divulge the reason for their belief that a former prison inmate caused the boy's death, but a check-up of all Connecticut prisons and jails has been ordered.

The inquest into the murder was attended by the boy's parents, Mrs. Katherine Mikenas and Peter Mikenas, who had been estranged since Mikenas questioned Albert's parentage a short time after the murder victim was born.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—"Baby Face" Willie Doody, diminutive killer who has been the object of the greatest manhunt since the capture of Marty Durkin, surrendered passively Tuesday when three detectives found him in a West Side apartment.

Doody is wanted in connection with four murders and a score of sensational robberies.

LOW STREAMS AID IN WATER SURVEY

HARRISBURG, Aug. 14.—The five motorized laboratories engaged in scientifically determining the sanitary condition of the water in the main streams of Pennsylvania are now taking advantage of the present drought to obtain specimens which will more accurately determine the actual situation than during high water periods because of the lack of dilution of sewage and industrial wastes.

C. L. Siebert, supervising this work for the bureau of engineering, State Health Department, said today that two laboratories are working on the Allegheny river from Ford City to Pittsburgh; one is investigating the west branch of the Susquehanna from Lock Haven to Northumberland, another is at work on the Juniata from Lewisburg to its confluence with the Susquehanna River and the fifth laboratory is engaged in research work along the Delaware from Port Jervis to Morrisville.

Officials Still Hunting Slayer At Uniontown, Pa.

Slayer Of Jack Donohue Is Still Unknown To Officials Is Claim

MAY BE RECORDED AS UNSOLVED CASE

(International News Service) UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 14.—The daily newspaper conferences on progress of the Jack Donohue slaying had been called off today by Major Lynn Adams, commandant of state police. The next conference will be called when police are ready to announce the name of the killers, or when they are ready to give up their investigation as an unsolvable mystery, Adams said. No information was available today as to what charges would be placed against "Little Joe" Petrella, alleged Uniontown and Republic racketeer. Adams admitted that Petrella was "held" in Greensburg barracks of Troop A, state constabulary. If any move is made to free the man, charges will be filed, Adams said. But he did not indicate what the charges would be. Vito Pamil and Dominick Mandarano of Bobtown, Green county, also were held temporarily, for questioning. Since the night more than two weeks ago when Donohue, ex-constable, was "taken for a ride," the state and Fayette county police have interrogated hundreds of witnesses. Nearly every man connected with an alleged bootleg and political machine has been questioned. Killer Unknown Adams, however, was unable to uncover the killer of Donohue as yet, he said. The figure of the United States government loomed in the background of the investigation. While John D. Pennington, prohibition administrator insisted he was leaving the investigation to Adams and pursuing a "hands off" policy he admitted the government would probe the alleged rum running if requested by Adams to do so. It had been expected that the weight of the United States power which might be invoked would help Adams but today there appeared to have been not the slightest rift in the tight closed silence of any one who knows about the Donohue case or what caused the killing.

Bad Check Artist Robs Pittsburgher

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Aug. 14.—There is one smooth young man somewhere in the vicinity of Pittsburgh today who doesn't believe in half-way measures, even in check forging. The young man asked G. F. Graham, grocer, if he wanted to sell his store. Graham replied he did and took the young man over the stock and goods. The "deal" was completed and the young man gave Graham a $1,000 check to bind the deal. After the young man left, Graham missed $18 from the till. The check came back, but the young man didn't. AERIAL HIGHWAY IS NEW PLAN FOR BOSTON (International News Service) BOSTON, Aug. 14.—A twenty-five mile aerial highway to cost $25,000,000 and to run in a loop around the downtown terminals is to be proposed to the Metropolitan and City Planning boards by W. J. MacDonald.

QUIT DRESSMAKING FOR AIRPLANES

Two girls engaged in airplane manufacture. Girls are quitting the dressmaking industry for airplane building. Six girls have charge of all wing and fuselage covering of the corporation near St. Louis that builds sister ships of Lindbergh's famous "Spirit of St. Louis." Girls who were expert dressmakers were trained in this work. The demand for girls for this type of work far exceeds the supply. Young women who have had experience in handling dress patterns and power sewing machines are given preference. The safe arrival of a plane at its destination depends largely on the absolute perfection of the wing covering. It takes girls from two to six months to become proficient in the work, according to the manager of an airplane manufacturing plant.

Six Killed As Japanese Plane Falls To Earth

(International News Service) LONDON, Aug. 14.—General Ogawa and Col. A third General Staff officer was seriously injured.

Connecticut Plans To Make Roads Safe

(International News Service) HARTFORD, Aug. 14.—Engineers of the motor vehicle department of Connecticut are studying reported accidents with a view to eliminating eventually all the danger spots in the state's system of highways. Hence motorists are instructed regularly that "that mere naming of a street where an accident occurs is of little value unless the spot at which the accident occurred is also designated." Car drivers also are told: "The particular point on the street or highway must be described by giving the distance to the nearest intersecting road or nearest house or building." With the information at hand engineers go wherever an accident has occurred and check up the situation. Connecticut has eliminated some detail work required of unfortunate motorists by doing away with accident reports where the damage is under twenty-five dollars. And from the questionnaires those questions most likely to be answered by false information have been erased, as have many that are considered unimportant.

LOOK WELL—FIT WELL

FOUR REASONS WHY DR. FORD DOES GOOD DENTAL WORK REASONABLY

- 1st—Economy in Buying—
I buy in large quantities, direct from the manufacturers and pay cash! When the average dentist doing a small practice pay from one-third to one-half more for material than I do, who really pays the difference? His patients.
- 2nd—Operate My Own Laboratory—
When the average dentist, who sends his plate and bridges to a commercial laboratory pays at least twice as much for each piece of work as it costs me to do in my own laboratory, who really pays the difference? His patients.
- 3rd—No Credit Losses—
When one out of every three fail to pay the dentist for work he has done, who pays for it? The dentist cannot lose it—his other patients pay, of course. Here you pay only for your own work.
- 4th—Large Volume of Practice—
If I make 50 plates or bridges where the average dentist makes one, doesn't it seem reasonable that I should be satisfied with a smaller profit on each case? I am!

To Use Microscope In Crime Detecting

(International News Service) CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—Gangsters, racketeers and other undesirable citizens are going to have their lives made miserable in Chicago next winter by a high-powered microscope. Maj. Calvin H. Goddard, ballistics expert, who was pressed into service by Coroner Herman N. Bundesen, and who will head the scientific crime detection laboratory which was created following the St. Valentine's day massacre of seven men will call for Europe this coming week to study methods of microscopic crime detection in Paris, Berlin, Vienna, Rome and Scotland Yard. "Chicago and other American cities are far behind Europe in the scientific inquiry of clues," said Maj.

Goddard. "It is for this reason that I will spend the following months there, gathering what data and knowledge is available to put in practice here. Murders have been solved by continental detectives through the running down of bacteria found on dead men's clothing and through other detections equally as subtle. While the European police have not progressed as much as we in the science of projectiles, they have much to give us in other fields, such as blood analysis, the study of handwriting, of footprints and the like." An alien in the Orient can't help the cause of peace if he has an olive branch in one hand and a munitions order book in the other.

Two Young Men Enlist In Army

Local Recruiting Officer Sends Two Men To Camp Holabird, Md.

Opportunities are open to young men to the Motor Transport school of the U. S. Army at Camp Holabird.

Md., said to be the finest school of its kind in the world at the present time, according to Corporal J. W. Thompson in charge of the army recruiting station here.

In this school a young man can secure the last word in training in motor mechanical work and come out well fitted to make a battle for the better things of life.

Corporal Thompson says that two young men have left this month for that place, having joined the Quartermaster Corps attached to the school.

They are Orville P. Grossman, 6

West Garfield avenue, this city, and Frank L. Bailey of 359 North street, Sharon, Pa.

City Is Upheld By Compensation Board

From News Bureau State Capital
HARRISBURG, Aug. 14.—The workmen's compensation board has disallowed compensation to Mrs. M.

Bella Emery, 1801 East Washington street, New Castle. Mrs. Emery sought an award from the city of New Castle.

Emery was employed as a street paving inspector. He was injured July 25, 1927, at Washington and Lathrop streets, when he was struck by an automobile. He died two days later.

Referee Christley awarded compensation and the city appealed to the courts, which held there was no evidence to sustain the award. The city did not pay the hospital bill of $99 or the $628 for funeral expenses.

Pittsburgh Sleuths Are Much Puzzled

Now Have Seven Men Who Claim To Have Robbed Ward Company Messengers

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 14.—The unhappy Hawkshaws of the Pittsburgh detective department were sinking deeper and deeper today into the maze of things that just couldn't be.

Obviously, they said, seven men didn't commit the Ward Baking Co. hold-up, because the two messengers who carried the payroll at the time said there were only three. Equally obvious, however, the three men held for trial yesterday, plus the four men now serving sentences for the crime made a total of seven men.

Joseph Maloney, John Sloan and Andrew Hufnagle will face trial charged with robbing the baking company, as a result of their hearing. Maloney insists his gang "turned the job," detectives said.

The four men now serving long sentences for the robbery said nothing, because they hadn't been interviewed.

The sleuths were rigging up involved plots today to account for the phenomenon of too many "guilty parties."

TODAY'S STORYETTE

A farmer and his son were dining at a city hotel. The son got into an argument with a stranger, who had called the boy an offensive name. The young fellow grabbed the table knife, but the father held him back.

"Ain't you got no table manners?" asked the old man.

"But, Pop, you heard what he called me, did it?"

"Yes, son, but that ain't no excuse for you forgittin' your manners. Put down that knife and go after him with yer fork."

The ancient Greek, you remember, gained new strength every time he hit the earth. It has that effect on a golfer's language, too.

The Story Of The World War
87—The Conquest Of Rumania

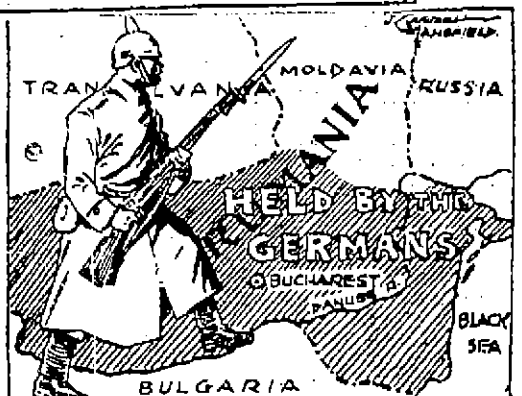

IN THE LATE FALL OF 1916, RUMANIA MET WITH THE SAME FATE THAT HAD OVERTAKEN SERBIA THE YEAR BEFORE. ATTACKED ON TWO SIDES BY ARMIES OF THE CENTRAL POWERS, LED BY THE GERMAN GENERALS, MACKENSEN AND FALKENHAYN, THE RUMANIAN FORCES WERE CRUSHED AND HURLED BACK UPON BUCHAREST.

FALKENHAYN REACHED THE RICH OIL FIELDS OF RUMANIA, WHICH HAD BEEN HIS GOAL, ONLY TO FIND THAT THE RETREATING FOE HAD WRECKED THE WORKS AND APPLIED THE TORCH TO MANY OF THE WELLS. MEANWHILE, MACKENSEN PUSHED ON TOWARD BUCHAREST.

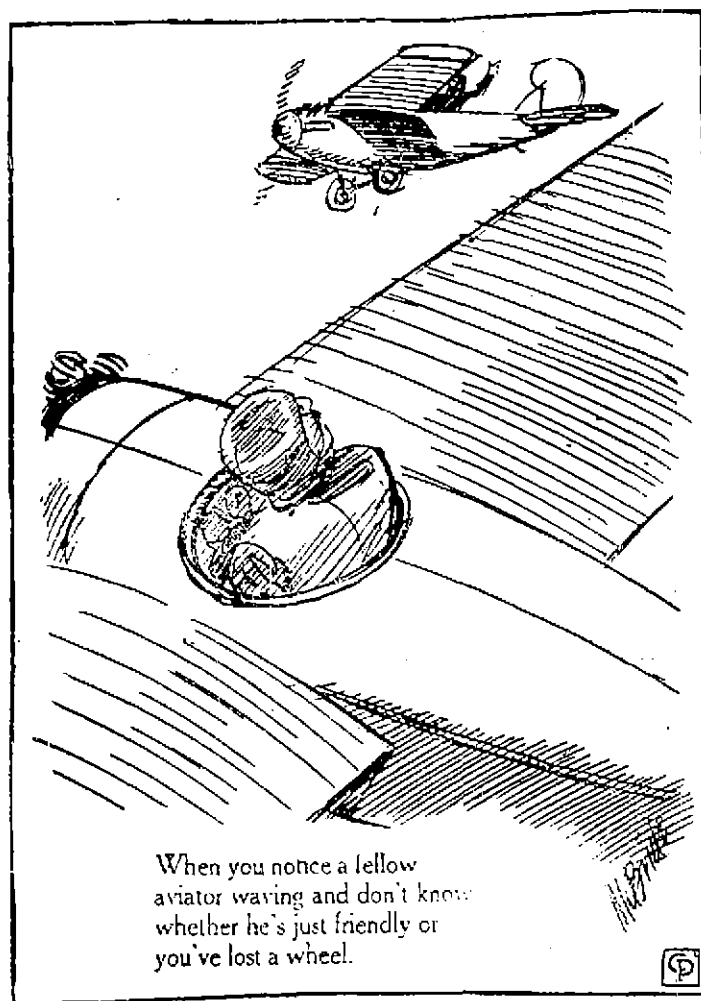

THE RUMANIANS FOUGHT VALIANTLY IN RETREAT, BUT WERE UNABLE TO STEM THE TIDE. THEY WERE FORCED TO ABANDON BUCHAREST. AND ON DECEMBER 6, DETACHMENTS OF BOTH FALKENHAYN'S AND MACKENSEN'S ARMIES OCCUPIED THE RUMANIAN CAPITAL.

THE RUMANIANS RETREATED INTO THE NORTH-EASTERN PART OF THE COUNTRY, REMOVING THEIR GOVERNMENT TO JASSY. THE CLOSE OF 1916 SAW TWO-THIRDS OF RUMANIA FIRMLY IN THE GRIP OF THE INVADERS. THIS UNEXPECTED CATASTROPHE WAS A HARD BLOW TO THE ALLIES.

Ferro Gets Return Bout With Paris Cangey

Will Retire From Boxing If Defeated

Fans Who Witnessed Last Ferro-Cangey Fight Are Still Talking Of Sensational Slugfests That Featured The Best Battle Staged At Jolly Bowl In Several Months.

By ED FRITZ
It looks as though the fans who like pugilistic excitement will get their appetite fully appeased Monday night when Paris Cangey and Frankie Ferro box a return bout at Jolly Bowl. Paris knocked out the Philadelphia in the seventh round of a sensational knockdown, drag-out affair at the bowl June 17 and as it was the first time Ferro had ever been knocked down let alone knocked out he has been clamoring for a chance to even up with the Seventh ward puncher.

In fact, through his manager, the well known Al Lippe, a man who's word is his bond, telegraphed to Promoter Bill Jolly yesterday stating that if Ferro fails to defeat Cangey he will retire from boxing.

Cangey did not have any clinch when he fought Ferro. Rather, he had quite a tussle before he brought home the bacon. Ferro had Cangey down four times. He had Ferro down twice before he sent a punch to the temple that started Ferro on the road to dreams.

Our description of what followed written June 18 follows: "He grasped his head and fell forward like a log. He took a count of nine and as soon as he got up Cangey dropped him with another right. He lay, cold as a doormat, on the floor at the bell."

"Al Lippe and Tom Bonan, in his corner, rushed into the ring and tried Frankie bodily to his corner. They gave him 'ammunition' doused him with water, slapped and rubbed him. The 'ammunition' made Frankie snap out of his daze and he leaped to his feet, kicked the chair from the ring, shoved his hands aside and rushed out before the bell rang to meet Cangey. By this time the fans were on their feet, yelling, shouting, tossing hats."

"Clang! The bell for the eighth sounded. Frankie stood hands up, eyes eager. Out dashed Cangey, left extended as a threat. They commenced slugging. Cangey's right beat Frankie's left. The blow landed on Frankie's jaw. Down he went!"

And while you've been regaled with what happened to Ferro don't forget that Mr. Paris Cangey visited the canvas four times. The bout had no sooner started than a short, inside right rolled Cangey to the floor. He took a count of nine, arose and was met with another right that sent him down again.

"He took a count of nine, got up clinched and in the close fighting nailed Ferro with another hook. They slugged for the rest of the round and the fighting that followed showed they were not feeling each other out but trying for a quick knockout. The fans were highly excited."

Cangey Attacks
Paris rushed across the ring in the second and he seemed demoralized by his attack. They slugged and Ferro dropped Cangey for "nine." Cangey braced in the third and looked like a million dollars but in the fourth Ferro was out front forcing the fighting when Cangey rushed.

"Ferro jabbed, held Cangey off then rapped him with the short right. The blow made Cangey reel with dizziness. Ferro followed this with blows to the head and Cangey missed. Ferro sent a right

Heeney Fights Campolo Tonight

Tom Heeney In Different Setting from Last Time, Goes To Ring Again

FIGHT GAME IS SLOWLY CHANGING

By DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor, International News Service
NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Time is a faithful friend. A year ago, they put on the last heavyweight championship fight and, for one night at least, the men who fought the fight and those who sponsored it were all-important in the eyes of the world. One of them was the challenger, Tom Heeney. He is fighting tonight as a trial horse in a dollar-ninety engagement over in Brooklyn. Another was Tex Rickard, the greatest promoter of his day or any other. He is dead. Two more of them were Billy Gibson and Charley Harvey, respective managers of the fighters. Gibson is out of boxing altogether and Harvey is fighting for his life in a Brooklyn Hospital as the result of an automobile accident. Bill McCabe, who was Mr. Tunney's duenna, is dead. Mr. Tunney, by the way, has passed from this life almost as definitely as though he had died.

Heeney Remains
All of the principals in this $700,000 enterprise, only Heeney, the chastened challenger, remains active with the passing of twelve months and, personally, I wouldn't give a nickel for his kind of activity. He is doing, there tonight with Vittorio Campolo, in a fight that means little today and may mean less tomorrow. He is supposed to build up Vittorio, the man-bullock, but whether he builds him up or tears him down is highly unimportant. The point is that the man who fought for a million dollar title a year ago will take five or six thousand for his end tonight and be glad of it.

Yes, the world moves on, leaving the road to its stragglers and a tombstone to its dead. Mr. Tunney, happily, is neither of these. And, by the way, it will be a relief to an anxious nation to know that Gene is soon to resume being an American after having been abroad so long that a lot of people were beginning to worry because they were afraid he might stay much longer. He won't. Gene has forgotten boxing for what it did for him and late in September will return to America with the Bernard Gimbel. He will wish it to be known that he no longer is interested in self-defense except in the case of law suits. So much for what a year will do.

It has made a young society man out of Tunney; a champ fighter out of Heeney. It has driven Gibson out of the ring for thirty-five years and the Mortimer brothers, also associated in the management of Heeney, are out of the business, too. Harvey will do well to get out of the hospital in a matter of many weeks. Rickard and McCabe are dead.

Time, in truth, plays no favorites.

Grid School At Harvard Success

(International News Service)
CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Aug. 14.—Harvard University's summer football school for high school and college coaches, which boasted of a class of several score pupils, has come to an end.

According to Eddie Casey, assistant gridiron coach to Arnold Horween, and "headmaster" of the summer grid school, a successful season was held despite the heat.

Prominent coaches from various sections of the country aided in the instructions. Among them were Emil Liston, coach and athletic director of Baker University, Kansas; Jack McAuliffe, Catholic University coach and former captain and line coach at Dartmouth college; Arthur Sampson, the great Tufts college coach, also gave instructions on defense against forward passes.

Wampum Gun Club To Stage Shoot

WAMPUM, Pa., Aug. 14.—The Wampum Gun Club made an announcement today of a shoot to be held at the Wampum range at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The shoot is open to everybody who cares to participate.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

By ED. FRITZ

Rain last night rained out the Billy Wallace-Tommy Grogan fight at the Taylor bowl, Cleveland. Sammy Madell has been offered $50,000 to meet the winner at Cleveland.

When Paris Cangey meets Frankie Ferro he will try to show that he can again turn the trick. Ferro doesn't believe this possible and is tuning up at Philadelphia with an eye to victory.

Edward Bickel, Cleveland Glenville coach has been named assistant football coach at Heidelberg college, Tiffin, according to an announcement today.

Kayo Christner and Johnny Risko have been signed by Charley Marotta, Cleveland but the Cleveland boxing commission refused to grant a permit at Marotta would not name his associate in the venture.

C. O. Benson, former forward at Illinois will be the new basketball coach at Thiel college according to Greenville reports. He will be the first importation from the midwest.

Vittorio Campolo, the new hope of Argentine and Tom Heeney are doctored for a ten round clash tonight at Ebbett's field, Brooklyn. Campolo recently won a foul from Arthur DeKuh.

Phil Zwick, a hard socking featherweight now at Cleveland wants to strut his stuff at the Jolly bowl. Phil has fought practically every leading featherweight in the world.

Perhaps it would be cheaper to pass a law providing an automatic jail sentence of one year for each young man who inherits a million.

Utah's Links Tiger

Enthusiasts who are awarding Bobby Jones the 1929 national amateur golf championship before it is played may experience a real shock if George Von Elm is in excellent form when that event takes place at Pebble Beach in California next month.

In the 1928 national amateur, Von Elm defeated Jones for the title at Baltusrol and Pebble Beach is one of George's favorite and familiar courses.

The diminutive blonde plays with such agile strength and intensity that sportsmen's phrase-makers (with reference to his native state also) call him "Utah's Golf Tiger."

In the national open last June, Von Elm was fifth with a score of 297, just three above the winning score, but in the Canadian open, about a fortnight ago, he made a rather mediocre showing.

Von Elm has been playing consistently high class golf, which rates him as one of the best of the amateurs, and well above most of the crack professionals. Unquestionably, "The Utah Tiger" has high hopes of winning the national amateur. He is thoroughly seasoned, knows the Pebble Beach course as well as he does his own clubs, and has no "Bobby Jones complex," i.e., George beat Robert for the title once and believes, naturally, he can do it again.

Temple University Looks To Grid Year With Real Interest

Temple University Plans To Have Finest Team In History Of School

Material Is Very Good; Heavy Schedule Awaits Grid-ers This Fall

By CLYDE SHUE
International News Service Staff Correspondent
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14.—Preparing for its biggest season in its football history, Temple university will have a veteran squad and 40 candidates scamping about in the fall training camp at Atlantic City immediately after the 1929 school year opens. Temple's football stock soared on the gridiron market in 1927-28 when it astonished the pigskin fans by administering severe setbacks to highly-touted eleven but, this year, the dawn of the coming season will herald an even greater Temple team, according to Head Coach Henry J. (Helmer) Miller.

Grover "Worm" Wearsing, captain-elect of this season's team, agrees with Miller. "Our team is facing its hardest schedule in its five-year history," said Wearsing, with Coach Miller nodding assent, "but, nevertheless, it is going to be our best. Villanova, of course, will give us the most opposition. Temple and Villanova are competing with Pennsylvania for football supremacy in Philadelphia and whichever team wins the Villanova-Philadelphia game will be recognized on a par with Penn."

Loss Two Regulars.
Loss of last year's grid squad by graduation—Robert "Bo" Mapello, versatile center, and Jack Ahlin, a tackle of three years' experience—leaves only these posts to fill in order to round out another high-caliber team. With several promising substitutes from the 1928 eleven at hand and with eager candidates coming up from the undefeated freshman squad, several new "finds" are looked for.

None of the varsity squad veterans is positive of retaining his berth, explained Miller, as it is his policy to plug up a weak gap with the most likely performer. Competition will be keen for every job on the line and in the backfield.

For Ahlin's post, Dave Buchanan, first string sub in 1927-28, appears to have the edge. The center berth, however, presents a vastly different problem. Capello will be greatly missed because of his sterling defensive work and the selection of a center to fill his shoes will fall between Greg Egner, George Schollenberger, Karl Olson or John Polletic—the latter two just moving up from the freshman team. Polletic will be started in the snapper-back job until or unless his work is surpassed by a rival.

After opening the campaign with three comparatively weak eleven, Temple will plunge into the hardest program ever mapped out. Stiff opposition is expected in Washington & Jefferson, Lafayette, Bucknell and Western Maryland.

The schedule:
Sept. 28—Thiel at home.
Oct. 5—St. Thomas at home.
Oct. 12—St. Bonaventure at home.
Oct. 19—Western Maryland away.
Oct. 26—W. & J. at home.
Nov. 2—Bucknell at home.
Nov. 9—Gallaudet at home.
Nov. 16—Lafayette at home.
Nov. 23—Drake at home.
Nov. 30—Villanova at home.

Mail Carriers To Play Lehigh Team

Tin Mill Team Barely Noses Out Haneys In Fast Game, Score 4 To 3

The New Castle Post Office Mushball team is billed tonight to tangle with the Lehigh Cement team at the Lehigh field. The game will start at 6:30 o'clock.

Last night, at Colonial field, the Shenango Tin Mill team had a hard time in taking a 4 to 3 verdict over the Haneys Furniture team in a league scramble. The Furniture boys played real mushball, and same within an inch or maybe it was a run of beating the strong Tin Mill crew.

Thursday night, at Colonial field, the Bankers and Phinix teams clash, in what should be a lively affair.

Friday night, the New Castle News team will oppose the Fremmen at Colonial field. The News boys are determined to win another game sometime, maybe it will be Friday night, who knows.

Following is the standing of the Mushball League to date:

W.	L.	Pct.
Phalanx	2	0 1.000
Lehigh Cement	1	0 1.000
Post Office	1	0 1.000
News Office	1	1 .500

Bankers	1	1 .500
Haneys	0	2 .000
Fremmen	0	2 .000

Athletics Gain Another Game

Mack's Boys Drop Detroit As Cleveland Indians Make Life Miserable For Yanks

By HENRY McCLEMORE
International News Service Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, N. Y., Aug. 14.—"A little dissention is just the thing, the boys fight—then make the base hits rings."

All of which is reported to be Connie Mack's rather twisted version of the poet's words. For while rumors fly that Mr. Mack's Athletics amuse themselves after the game by playfully hitting one another on the nose, they still manage to win ball games.

Yesterday, thanks to Hale's first home run of the year and Jimmy Fox's 27 they whipped Detroit 4 to 3, taking the series and increasing their lead over the Yanks to 12 and 1/2 games.

Indians Beat Yanks
Cleveland waited until the ninth inning to wreck the Yanks. With the Indians trailing by two runs, Hodapp elected to get his triple for the day. Two men being on when the three base blows came the Yanks blew another, 3 to 2. Ferrell, youthful Indian flinging find, turned in a new job on the hill.

The Red Sox celebrated their final appearance of the season in Chicago by defeating the White Sox, 3 to 2.

Led by O'Rourke, who collected five hits, the Browns buried the Senators, 14 to 2.

Fred Fitzsimmons must have left his magic wand at home yesterday for the Reds finally solved his brand of flinging to whip the Giants, 3 to 1.

Rogers Hornsby, with two doubles and a single was the big factor in the Cub's humbling of the Braves. Rajah also accepted eight chances in the field faultlessly. The fine pitching of Hal Carlson should not be overlooked, he limiting the Bostonians to six safeties.

Other National League clubs enjoyed a day of rest.

Policeman Held, Tried To Stage Street Holdup

Intended Victim Turns Tables On Robber Who Turns Out To Be Policeman

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 13.—A policeman charged with holding up a man on his night off was locked up today in the Northside station on suspicious person charges pending investigation.

Julius Rocks, 63, was stopped three times in six squares by a man who poked a gun into his ribs and threatened to shoot, he said, tired of being held up by Rocks' grapple with and subdued his assailant. The man proved to be Patrolman John L. Donovan who was off duty for the night.

Arrested before Magistrate Z. M. Rough, Donovan said he had been drinking and "didn't know" why he held up Rocks. Anthony A. Block, acting inspector of police suspended the patrolman and filed charges before the police board.

The holdups occurred early this morning while Rocks was on his way to work. After overpowering Donovan he called workmen and took him to the station.

Farrell police last night reported to the local police that two colored men had stolen a Star Coach, 1921 model, Pennsylvania license 613-056 from that place and asked the local authorities to be on the watch.

NEW YORK STOCKS

International News Service

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The buying wave in U. S. Steel, Westinghouse and General Electric broke with fury over the stock market in the early trading today and carried prices 8 to 16 points higher in the first half-hour. The race to higher values was taken up by the utility stocks, rails and specialties, the Bulls once again riding the wave of a powerful buying move, sweeping in from all sections of the country.

Westinghouse Electric jumped 16 points in an many minutes to a new high at 250 before the over-night accumulation of buying orders had been filled. United States Steel boomed along 8 points to 245 and General Electric was within a point of joining the 400-club when the stock reeled off 10 1/2 points to sell at 399. Consolidated Gas led the utilities with a 5-point jump to 168 1/2, a new high price for all time; American Tel. and Tel. was up about 3 points and Anaconda was turned over in big blocks above 122, the high point on the move.

Atchison, at the head of the rails, sold up 3 points at 27 3/4. U. S. Steel shared the lime-light with a larger group of speculative favorites today than in any full session in a week or more. The Bull movement spread with rapidity to the oil stocks, coppers and motors. Investment buying for the Trusts and Powerful Corporations and pools swept the market bare of stocks at any thing approximating Tuesday's closing prices.

"If you were to inherit $1,000,000 within the year, what would you do with it?" asks Thomas A. Edison, and if the truth must be known we'd probably use it to establish a foundation for study and research looking toward the eventual elimination of wars on hoplods. We're just that silly.

If clothes pins and lines are boiled about ten minutes when new they will give much longer service.
